NO. 279-SEVENTY-SECOND YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1930 FORTY-FOUR PAGES

B.C. SECTIONS CANADA PHONE UNDER WAY

James Hamilton, General Manager Telephone Co., States Link Ready 1931

LINE FOR 600 MILES TO COST $1,250,000

To Complete First 200-Mile Stretch by End of Year

British Columbia's link of the all-Canadian telephone circuit will be completed by the close of the year 1931 and will be ready for the opening of the line from Victoria to Halifax, to take place early in 1932, it was announced by James Hamilton, vice-president and general manager of the British Columbia Telephone Company, who was in Victoria yesterday in connection with the change over to the dial system at the Victoria exchange.

EXPANSION POLICY
"The company has mapped out an expansion policy which will provide for the future in telephonic communication in British Columbia. We believe that the present depression is only momentary, and when the time comes, we want to be prepared to jump right in. In making ready for the future the company has absolute faith in British Columbia as one of the fast-growing provinces of the Dominion, and we believe we are warranted in outlining a development policy at this time," Mr. Hamilton stated.

Mr. Hamilton pointed out the progress that has been made in Victoria in the last twenty-year period. In 1910, he said, the British Columbia Telephone Company had only 3,984 subscribers in Victoria. At the present time the total subscribers had reached to slightly under the 17,000 mark. "The company is hoping for as great an advance during the next twenty years and for that reason we have made our exchange here capable of taking care of a traffic of 40,000 subscribers."

GROWTH OF SERVICE
In 1910, Mr. Hamilton stated, the company was operating but a single circuit between Victoria and Vancouver, via Bellingham. At the present time the company has direct circuits in operation between Vancouver Island and the Mainland, and an additional twenty circuits provided for in the cable already installed between the two points.

Mr. Hamilton inspected the new equipment at Blanshard Street exchange yesterday, and in the evening he was present and took part in the official opening ceremonies.

NEW BRAZILIAN CHIEF TO TAKE OFFICE MONDAY

Dr. Vargas Will Dissolve Congress on Assuming Presidency

REBEL TROOPS STILL POUR INTO CAPITAL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 1.—Dr. Getulio Vargas, commander-in-chief of Brazil's successful revolutionaries, announced this evening that he would take office as President of the country Monday afternoon, November 3.

His first official act will be to dissolve Congress. He said that owing to the present political situation in the country he would assume the Presidency "with discretionary power."

His announcement followed upon consultations with the Northern insurgent military leader, Captain Juarez Tavora, and officers of the military junta in the capital. The junta will probably be abolished within forty-eight hours.

More rebel troops reached Rio today from Minas Geraes, Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul. The police here have been very active against Communists who are charged with being responsible for the police revolt and street fighting on October 27.

It was understood tonight that all banks would resume exchange operations on Monday.

BUILDING BURNS IN HEART OF NEW YORK
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—In the shadow of the Woolworth Building, fire swept through a five-story loft building in the heart of the downtown business district tonight and spread to an adjoining structure before it was brought under control.

Automatic Phones Now in Operation In Victoria City

British Columbia Telephone Company Inaugurated Modern System of Telephonic Communication With an Official Ceremony in Blanshard St. Exchange at Midnight Last Night

Mayor Dials First Call to Governor

A HABIT of half a century, a custom of business and social life for two score and ten years, passed out of existence when the familiar "Number, Please," of central was silenced in Victoria, and in its place the heralds of progress enthroned one of science's latest communicating devices—"The dial telephone."

As the clock at the City Hall struck twelve of Saturday night thousands of intricate instruments, encased in protective armor, sprang into life and the task, which has taken experts months to complete, turned the last corner of the road to success.

In the old operating room, which had faithfully served the thousands of Victoria subscribers, tiny signal lights flickered in and out as the operators "put through" the last calls for the old manual system. Operators, trained by years of service, "stood by" on the alert for emergency numbers until section by section of the long switchboard ceased to function. Once the heart of the system, the old board passed into temporary disuse, and with it thousands of dollars worth of added equipment which will since then be required in the new order of things.

The actual takeover from the manual to the automatic occupied but three and a half minutes. Experts, specially trained for the work, were to do on a given signal, carried out their part of the programme without a hitch. Every movement was supervised by an experienced mechanic under whose commands the corps of experts operated.

IN DAYS OF OLD
It is a far cry from the first public description of a telephone operated by electricity given by the German inventor Reis in 1861, and from the first patented instrument for practical use by Bell in 1876, to the perfection of the dial telephone system in use today. Dial telephones are not new to Canada, several systems being in operation fifteen to twenty years ago. Since then many changes have been made in equipment, but the principle has remained.

The first telephone exchange in Victoria was situated in Douglas Alley and opened with forty subscribers in 1880, just fifty years ago, when for a time the single line ground system was used until the installation of the then modern equipment. The late R. B. McKicking was the father of telephones in British Columbia and organized the first company which was merged into the British Columbia Telephone Company in 1903.

In 1912 the increase in the use of telephones in Victoria forced the company to seek larger quarters and in 1912 the present exchange building at the corner of Blanshard and Johnson Streets was constructed.

FIRE THREAT STARTS PANIC IN OKLAHOMA

Residential District in Danger Zone Evacuated When Alarm is Sounded

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1.—Oklahoma City had a few brief moments of panic late today, as fire swept through oil-soaked grass at the southeast doorstep of the city, a mile and a half from where an uncontrolled volcano of oil roared into the sky.

Scores of work-wearied firemen, oil field workers and National Guardsmen, quenched the flames in less than an hour, but not before panic cleared the residential district in the danger zone near the wild No. 1 Stout well, and word had swept through downtown crowds that the "wild well is on fire."

ADDED TO SCARE
Adding to the scare came the report that another great gusher near the Stout, 1,900 feet of hose strung along the Rock Island right-of-way, oil racks and every available man on duty, fire department officials were ready for an emergency tonight.

As night fell attempts to control the Stout were abandoned until daylight. Night work is impossible, with the fire and light ban in force.

READY FOR EMERGENCY
With fire equipment standing ready in the area surrounding the Stout, 1,900 feet of hose strung along the Rock Island right-of-way, oil racks and every available man on duty, fire department officials were ready for an emergency tonight.

As night fell attempts to control the Stout were abandoned until daylight. Night work is impossible, with the fire and light ban in force.

Ethiopian Capital Is Without Water While King Bathes

Emperor and Empress Will Be Crowned Today at Brilliant Ceremony—High Officers of Many Nations Attend Dazzling Festivities

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 1.—The entire water supply of the capital of Ethiopia tonight was shut off until the Emperor, Ras Tafari, and his Empress, Waziru Menen, could take a ceremonial bath before beginning their all-night vigil in front of their crowns in St. George's Cathedral.

The vigil is in preparation for their coronation tomorrow morning. The failure of the water supply mystified natives and foreigners alike, but was soon explained by palace officials.

ALL ROADS CROWDED
For days the roads, lanes and cowpaths of Northeastern Africa have led to the capital of this 6,000-year-old empire. Recently they have been swarmed with barefooted, black-faced humanity, clad in picturesque white Roman togas, all intent upon witnessing bestowal of Abyssinia's crown.

Arabia Maru Grounds on Vendovi Id.

The O.S.K. ship Arabia Maru struck on Vendovi Island, south of Lumm Island, late last night, according to a telephone message received after midnight. She later managed to get off and proceeded to Bellingham under her own power, leaking in her fore hold.

The Arabia Maru was sailing her way to Bellingham in the fog when she grounded on the island, which is midway between Guemes and Lumm Islands.

The crashing and grinding on the rocks sprang a leak in the vessel's bow. After a struggle of more than half an hour the ship came off under her own power.

The Arabia Maru is a twin screw ship of 5,414 tons, built in Osaka in 1918.

BRITISH NAVY COULD NOT AID CANADA IN WAR

Noted Historian Depicts Situation if Great Britain and U.S. Fought

WE WOULD BE NEUTRAL IN CASE OF CONFLICT

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—Under the new doctrine of naval parity between Great Britain and the United States, Canada no longer enjoys the protection of the British Fleet, Professor George M. Wrong, of the University of Toronto, told the Canadian Club here today. Speaking on "How Democracy is Working in Canada," Professor Wrong mentioned this as an instance of one of the many new situations which were constantly arising to alter the problems of government.

In the event of war, he said, Canada could expect little support from the British Navy because the United States Navy would be of the same strength and close at hand. This would mean Canadian ports would be blocked and a United States Army could easily take possession of the important centres of Canada. For this reason military strategists now thought Canada should declare neutrality in the event of war with the United States.

Owing to the complexity of modern politics the average citizen could only sit himself to exercise an intelligent vote by intense study, Professor Wrong said. It was the strategists now thought Canada should declare neutrality in the event of war with the United States.

PLANE LEAVES HERE TODAY TO HUNT FOR VANCOUVER AVIATOR

Seattle Flyer Will Search North Coast for "Pat" Renahan, Missing Since Tuesday, South of Prince Rupert—Was on Way to Scour Liard Area for Burke

Left Butedale Cannery to Hop To Up-Coast City for Night

CHIEF Pilot Ansel Eckmann, operator of the incorporated division of the Airways Company, who made the first nonstop flight to Alaska, will arrive from Seattle at 9 o'clock this morning, and will take off from here in search of Robin Renahan, on completion of which he will continue the search for Burke.

Eckmann, in talking with C. C. Johnson, local manager of the Alaska-Washington Airways of British Columbia, by long-distance telephone last night, stated that he planned to fly from Seattle via Victoria, but if the weather was against him he would continue north, possibly stopping at Vancouver.

Eckmann will be accompanied by "Jumps" Goodwin, chief air engineer of Alaska-Washington Airways, Incorporated.

WAS AT BUTEDALE
Definite word that Robin "Pat" Renahan, Vancouver pilot, who left Vancouver Tuesday afternoon, to join the search for Captain E. J. A. Burke in Northern British Columbia, reached Butedale cannery, on Whale Canyon, approximately 100 miles south of Prince Rupert, safely landed at Prince Rupert, and started for Prince Rupert, has been received here through the Canadian Fishing Company, operators of the Butedale cannery.

And Johnson, cannery manager, reported today that Renahan and his two companions, Frank Hatcher, mechanic, and Sam Clert, prospector, landed at Prince Rupert, and shortly before 4 p.m. Tuesday and left again at 5:20 p.m. The pilot expressed his intention of reaching Prince Rupert before dark, declaring that he could do the 100 miles in three-quarters of an hour.

Renahan has now been missing four days, and the relief plane, piloted by Ansel Eckmann, will fly direct for Butedale early Sunday morning to make a search of Lowe Inlet, Ogden Channel and other waters north of Butedale.

VISIBILITY POOR
There was a report from Alert Bay that Renahan had passed over there, but it is believed that another plane must have been mistaken for his.

The visibility was poor at the time Renahan left Butedale, and there was a strong southeast wind blowing. Darkness set in at 4:15, so that Renahan had a narrow margin in his attempt to reach Prince Rupert before nightfall.

Under these circumstances fear for Renahan's safety have increased, and the Seattle relief plane will make all possible speed towards the Northern waters, where he may have experienced trouble.

It is feared that in making a landing at dusk on Tuesday Renahan's plane was damaged and he was unable to proceed. Otherwise, it is said, he would have reached some cannery or village from which word could be flashed to Vancouver.

FEARS BURKE IS DEAD
In the meantime no trace has been found in the mountainous district of Northern British Columbia where Captain Burke and his two companions, Emil Hading, of Vancouver, and Bob Martin, prospector, disappeared on October 11 on a flight from the Liard River post to Alert Bay.

Frank Dorbandt, Arctic pilot, who has made several search flights over the route which Burke usually followed, reported that there was no sign of the missing plane on any of the small lakes. He will widen the path of his aerial search in further flights.

EIGHTEEN EARTHQUAKES THROW TOWN IN PANIC

FIATRA, Italy, Nov. 1.—Eighteen earth shocks were felt here last night and continued intermittently through the morning. The population of the town, which is near Macerata, on the fringe of the zone shaken earlier this week, was thrown into panic, but no injuries or damage were reported.

FOUR HUNDRED HURT
The list of wounded was established at 400, and many of these are only slightly injured.

All day long lumber for temporary barracks was rushed to the stricken towns, and many refugees have been sheltered for several days since the disaster. Relief services are functioning well, with food and other supplies entering the zone in some regularity. Engineers completed a survey of the damage in Senigallia this afternoon.

COAST DEFENCE TROPHY Won by Local Battery

Word was received yesterday by Lieut-Col. T. B. Monk, V.D., that the 56th Heavy Battery of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, C.A., had won the 1930 Governor-General's trophy for general efficiency for Coast Defence Artillery in the Dominion.

It was also announced that the battery had won the Hugh Blake Challenge Cup for efficiency of personnel. This marks the sixth year in succession that a battery of the B.C. Coast Brigade has won the Governor's Cup. Major J. B. Clart-hue, M.C., commander of the battery, conducted the six-inch shoot, with Capt. Dispecker and Lieut. Allen assisting him, while Lieut. E. B. Corby was in charge of twelve-pounder quick-firing guns in competition. This culminates the training season for the brigade for 1930.

Those who took part in the shoot this year were: D.R.F.: Lieut-Col. H. T. Zala, Lieut-Col. F. V. Richardson, Bdr. J. Holmes, Lieut-Col. W. Anderson, Cmr. J. H. S. Goodlake, Signaller S. S. Brown, E. Bos, J. B. Elliot, P. I. O'Connor, A. Caldwell, W. E. Farmer, W. H. Gibson, D. Stewart, Gunlayers R. Eaton, W. K. Quayle, E. H. Newman, J. E. Chipper, H. C. Ashworth, A. B. Gray, R. STATE GRANT TO EDUCATE SONS OF POOR

British Government Introduces Novel Social Legislation to Aid Needy

CHILDREN TO BE KEPT AT SCHOOL

Payments to Be Based on Earnings of Parents—Cost $40,000,000

By CARROLL BENDER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News-Publishing Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 1.—That the state should contribute to the support of the children of the poor whom it compels to attend school between the ages of fourteen and fifteen years, is the novel principle embodied in an important measure the Labor Government is introducing in Parliament next Thursday.

There is strong Tory opposition to the project, which Minister of Education Charles P. Trevelyan estimates will cost the taxpayers $40,000,000 annually when fully operative in 1933, for maintenance grants, and additional teachers and buildings, but the Laborites will fight hard to enact the bill, which, besides the novel educational opportunities of the masses, is calculated to remove 150,000 youths from the already overcrowded employment market.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS
Earlier attempts to keep children in school until they are fifteen years old have failed because of disagreement over the methods of financing poor children, and religious difficulties, but Mr. Trevelyan has evolved a clever scheme which is believed will be acceptable to the more extreme Socialists and not too unpalatable to the Liberals, though it may be antipathetic to Tory opponents of the "dole principle" and to money-savers.

A parent of two children is entitled to £125 a year subsidy for each child in school between the ages of fourteen and fifteen years, if he assures the Government that he earns no more than £15 a week. Heads of larger families are allowed maintenance though their salaries are larger, the maximum being a $26 weekly wage-earner. It will get of seven children. There is a prison penalty for false claim and those with better incomes are not aided.

The cost of the more extreme Laborites, who wanted a flat payment to all parents.

Sixty per cent of the dole would be paid by the nation, the remainder and the rest by local taxpayers. The cost of maintenance for the first full year is estimated at $18,750,000.

RELIEF WORK PROGRESSES IN ITALIAN TOWN

Official List Shows Twenty-One Killed by Thursday's Earthquake

DAMAGE PLACED AT FIFTEEN MILLIONS

ANCONA, Italy, Nov. 1.—The known dead from the earthquake which struck the North Adriatic region this week was set today at twenty-one by the official Stefani News Agency.

Of this number thirteen were killed at Senigallia, six at Ancona and two at Pesaro.

The damage was estimated at $15,000,000, with at least thirty houses at Ancona and 200 at Senigallia razed. In addition, Senigallia alone has 4,000 dwellings which must be wrecked because of damages, while more than 1,000 of the same type are in Ancona and 250 in the nearby countryside.

FOUR HUNDRED HURT
The list of wounded was established at 400, and many of these are only slightly injured.

All day long lumber for temporary barracks was rushed to the stricken towns, and many refugees have been sheltered for several days since the disaster. Relief services are functioning well, with food and other supplies entering the zone in some regularity. Engineers completed a survey of the damage in Senigallia this afternoon.

PLANS WERE DELAYED
The meeting in London of the British Imperial Conference and the aftermath of the Canadian elections which swept him into office, prevented an immediate consideration of the question by the Prime Minister.

Deeply interested in the project as a prospective scheme for the relief of unemployment in both the United States and Canada, President Hoover is devoting considerable attention to the possibility of an immediate resumption of negotiations.

The cost of the enterprise has been estimated at some $275,000,000, including installation of electrical equipment to provide incidental electrical energy rated at 1,800,000 horsepower.

THREE WILL CONTEST SEAT IN BY-ELECTION AT NORTH VANCOUVER

NORTH VANCOUVER, Nov. 1.—Three candidates filed nomination papers today in the North Vancouver by-election for the Legislature, which will take place next Wednesday.

Alderman E. H. Bridgman will be the Liberal candidate; Jack Loutch, Conservative, while James Whitman is running as an Independent.

The by-election was necessitated by the resignation of Hon. Ian MacKenzie, who now represents Vancouver Centre in the House of Commons.

Please do not make "Curiosity Calls"

You will find the dial telephones easy to use

THE dial telephone system is now in use in Victoria. If a large number of people call up their friends in order to try out the dial telephones, the amount of telephone traffic will be so much above normal that it will seriously hamper us in getting the new apparatus working smoothly. Therefore we urgently request you not to use the telephone unnecessarily during the three days following the change in the system. The job we have in hand is extremely complicated, and we ask you to help us by refraining from making "curiosity calls."

THURSDAY—Rotary Club luncheon in Empress Hotel, 12:10 p.m.
FRIDAY—Is probable date for Canadian Club luncheon.

The Victoria Canadian Club will this week be addressed by Lord Stonehaven, Governor-General of Australia, who arrives here by the motorship Aorangi, en route for the Old Country.

Lord Stonehaven, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, Hon. Ariel Baird and Hon. Eva Baird, has wired his consent to address the members, and it is thought probable that the luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel will be held on Friday, although the date is necessarily uncertain until the time of arrival of the liner has been ascertained.

No subject has been announced for Lord Stonehaven's address. C. L. Harrison, well-known member of the Alpine Club, will speak to Gyro members tomorrow on "The West Coast Road and Its Value to Victoria." Mr. Harrison's address will be illustrated.

The Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its monthly meeting in Spencer's private dining-room tomorrow, when Mr. Carey, of the Maple Leaf Association, will address the members.

On Tuesday, C. W. Lonsdale, principal of Shawnigan Lake School, will address the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club, at which the final report of the nominating committee will also be given.

On Tuesday evening, B. C. Nicholson

PRISON LABOR IS BENEFICIAL

Auto Licence Plates Provide Work for Prisoners at Oakalla

JURY COMMENDS SYSTEM

Work created at Oakalla by the manufacture of British Columbia automobile licence plates, and in other ways as a means of occupying the time of prisoners is commended in the presentation of the grand jury at the Vancouver Assizes, now in the hands of the Attorney-General, after being reported by Chief Justice Morrison.

The grand jury commented favorably on its visit to the jail, and was shown the farm, workshops and new kitchen built with prison labor. An allowance of 25c a day for prison labor, to be saved for each man until his release, is one of the recommendations made. Another suggestion is that tobacco be supplied to prisoners, as at the penitentiary.

Exercising its right to tour public buildings, the grand jury reported favorably on the Girls' Detention Home, the Provincial Home for Incurables, the Juvenile Detention Home and the city jail, commenting, however, that accommodation was taxed at some of these institutions. General approval was shown of the management in each case.

Increasing tendency towards crime on the part of youths was reserved for special reference by the grand jury, which suggested the creation of a national commission to investigate the subject. The keeping apart of minor and major offenders while under detention was also suggested. Jonathan Rogers acted as foreman, making the presentation.

ODD FELLOWS FRATERNIZE

Under the auspices of Victoria Lodge No. 1, the Odd Fellows and their sister Rebekahs enjoyed the initial event for the 1930-31 winter season.

Directed by the capable hands of Brother T. Hubbard, the social committee certainly gave a good account of itself, for the comments on the programme were of the most satisfying nature.

The lodge orchestra supplied new music for a dancing crowd of about two hundred, while Brother Livingstone superintended the arrangements in the card room.

URGENT APPEAL BEING MADE BY FUND CHAIRMAN

Drive for $20,000 for Armistice Period - Red Cross Far Short of Objective

$15,000 IS NEEDED TO COMPLETE FUND

With the last week of the Armistice Period-Red Cross campaign commencing today, the fund is a long way from its objective of $20,000 and Fred Landsberg, chairman of the committee, has issued an urgent appeal to all citizens to "do their bit" to bring the effort to a successful conclusion. No amount is too large and none too small. Every sympathizer is urged to send a subscription without delay to the honorary treasurer, R. F. Taylor, 317 Belmont House.

A steady stream of visitors wends its way daily to the headquarters at the corner of Fort and Broad Streets, and many small donations are left there by sympathizers who are giving to the limit of their ability. But it takes very many small sums to make the total of $20,000, which is the minimum amount required to enable the two organizations to carry on their work effectively.

MANY IN NEED
Twelve years have elapsed since the Armistice was signed, but many who made it possible for the allied nations to bring the war to a successful conclusion are in need today. During the war these men were told that "Canada will not forget her debt nor neglect to pay it in full." The debt has not yet been paid fully, and men who went away with that promise ringing in their ears are carrying the burden of battle and enduring preventable hardship because the debt is still unpaid.

Peace has brought no relief to them. Disabilities, undetected at the time of discharge, have made the problem of existence, without help, an impossible one. In appealing for liberal support of the fund which is now being raised, the campaign relies upon the citizens' sense of justice.

An understanding existed between the fighting men and the people at home, to the effect that no man who served his country in the battle line would be forgotten when he returned, and none would suffer preventable suffering.

FUNDS NEEDED
But preventable suffering does exist and the Armistice Period Committee is perturbed at the situation with which it is faced. If help is to be given to those who sorely need it, the committee must be supplied with funds.

The Red Cross Society is faced with a similar problem. The great humanitarian work which it is doing must be curtailed unless citizens provide the means for its continuation. With six days left to finish the drive, and more than $15,000 still needed to complete the total required, the campaign committee appeals to citizens to send in their contributions to the honorary treasurer.

ORCHARDS ON DISPLAY

To encourage the raising of better fruit, orchards have been used as exhibition places by the Antrim County Committee of Agriculture in Ireland this season. Those having the finest fruit and were in the best condition were chosen as the meeting place, and crowds gathered there as in exhibition halls. The latest exhibition was held in the orchard of James O'Grady, near Newpark, where fine specimens of apples, lectures were given on apple growing, grading and packing and the fighting of insect and fungus pests by county and Government agricultural departments representatives.

RARE STATUES UNEARTHED

Discovery of three exquisite statues of outstanding archaeological and artistic merit in one of the richest and most beautiful private residences of ancient Herculaneum has just been reported by Professor Majuri, who is in charge of the excavations at the foot of Mount Vesuvius. Herculaneum, like Pompeii, was buried by the eruption of Vesuvius in A.D. 79. All three statues are of white marble and stand about four feet high. They represent a drunken Hercules, a satyr and a hunting scene. The workmanship is perfect, and the marble, owing to the long time underground, has assumed a delicate patina similar to old ivory.

THE DIAL SYSTEM IN USE

Today Victoria wakens to find itself in a new telephone era. Overnight the telephone men have been busy and the dial system is now in use. This city was the first community in British Columbia to have a telephone switchboard. It is a fitting thing and a fortunate coincidence that in the fifth year after the opening of that original telephone office on Trunoe Alley we find ourselves with the most advanced of telephone systems. Victoria is the first of the major towns of British Columbia to have the dial telephone. This newspaper is glad to extend hearty congratulations to the British Columbia Telephone Company upon the new policy which crystallized at midnight.

There can be no doubt about the wisdom of installing the dial system here. The time had come when growth had made some great step in advance necessary, and of the alternatives with which the company was confronted the one which it chose is by long odds the most advantageous from the public standpoint. The company has done everything it could reasonably be expected to do to make the transition as easy as it could. Its programme has been an extremely thorough one.

Now that the old has gone and the new is here, it is the grateful and graceful thing to salute those young ladies who have served so cheerfully and so well as telephone operators. The telephone company while giving Victoria the most up-to-date system which telephone has to offer, has been regular always of its staff. For some time past no permanent additions have been made to the operating staff, former operators, who required only temporary work, being taken on with the knowledge that the cutover would end their employment. An operating staff will still be required to handle the long-distance business and emergency calls, calls to numbers which have been changed, and so forth, and the remainder of the present staff will be given the opportunity of transferring elsewhere. It is difficult to see what more the company could have been expected to do.

While remembering the people who served the public so faithfully, it is not out of place to say a word, too, for the "servants" of wood and metal. The big switchboard began its service in 1912, and with the exception of twenty minutes in 1918, it has never ceased to function night or day. That cessation in 1918 was not a dishonorable one. It came when the first rumors of an armistice caused the whole city to reach for the telephone, and one of the main fuses gave way under the unprecedented traffic load. Stronger and stronger fuses were inserted, only to blow out one after another, until finally orders were given to leave the board "dead" for a few minutes for fear of endangering the calling public. It is not many pieces of equipment which only go off duty once in eighteen years. There has never been a moment in all that time when someone has not been on duty in the operating room. There are good reasons then, why, for telephone people and for the people they serve, today is not without its touch of sentiment.

While the wonders of the new system compel an admiring tribute to the genius of today's telephone engineers, we are equally ready to look back over the past half century and to pay homage to such men as the late Mr. R. B. McKinnon, who pioneered the telephone trail in this province. Meeting telephone problems in those days was a somewhat lonely business. There were no telephone experts with a rich body of experience to guide them; there were only men of stout hearts and ingenious minds who worked long hours and defied the scoffers.

The telephone industry has a good record and a worthy tradition, and the local officials of the present day—Mr. F. C. Patterson, in charge of the commercial work, Mr. N. J. Dunlop, the head of the plant activities, and Miss E. R. Walker, supervising traffic affairs—have proven themselves competent as custodians of that record and that tradition. They and all the others who participated in the exacting work of changing over the system deserve high praise for their accomplishment.

MR. N. S. LOUGHEED'S RECORD

The occasion of the change of office by Mr. N. S. Lougheed from the administration of the Department of Public Works to that of Lands, has led to some comment by the political enemies of the Government. There are certain charges of extravagances made against Mr. Lougheed, but never any specific cases are quoted. It is simply one of the generalizations which are rife on the lips of Mr. T. D. Pattullo and his supporters in their desire to make political capital of any character irrespective of the lack of substance lying behind the utterances. Mr. Lougheed, while conducting the affairs of the Department of Public Works, has undoubtedly spent money in a large way on roads. He has done so on the basis of money appropriated for the very purpose by the Legislature. He found the roads of the province, and particularly the main highways, in anything but good condition at the time he assumed office. He found bad curves, dangerous corners, culverts and bridges approaching a state of disrepair and all those conditions contributing to the spread of accidents from motor travel. He realized, too, that such travel is increasing by leaps and bounds and that heavier vehicles for freight and passenger transportation is occupying the roads more and more. He took all these facts into consideration. He embarked on a policy of general highway improvements which has been carried on systematically under his Department. The general result is that roads throughout British Columbia have never in all their history been in better shape.

In other words, Mr. Lougheed replaced a policy of comparative neglect, in many instances, by one of up-to-date maintenance, coupled with such improvements for the safety of traffic as have meant an important factor in reducing the number of motoring accidents in the province. His engineering staff prepared and carried out a wide programme of work which included not only new roads, but the widening and banking of dangerous corners on main thoroughfares, the elimination of curves, the reduction of grades, in some cases, and a general plan of improvements which in the aggregate has proved a boon to the traveling public.

Under the road policy of the Conservative Government hundreds of settlers, who have been paying taxes for years, some earmarked for road improvements, have benefited, and now are in a better position than ever before to ship their products to markets. Throughout what he has done in this respect Mr. Lougheed proceeded on broad lines. He showed no favoritism to any district. His policy has been provincial development, and in all the necessary expenditure to achieve this end careful supervision was exercised to insure a dollar's value for a dollar spent. Settlers have benefited through supplementing their earnings by work on the roads. Instead of contract labor being employed the people have been engaged on the task, where settlement roads are concerned, and, as a consequence, all the expenditure in this particular has been kept within the province.

No one who has followed his administration of the Department of Public Works can deny that Mr. Lougheed has been energetic. He felt that he had a mandate to provide better and safer transportation facilities, and he set himself to the task with a will. He has been courageous, but on safe and sure lines. He has, in fact, in road construction and improvements, built for the future, and he has followed implicitly the advice of his engineering staff, underdressed by political considerations. That staff, and indeed, all employees of the Department of Public Works recognized from the beginning the Minister's efficiency and gave him the most loyal service. Mr. Patrick Philip, the Deputy Minister, and Mr. George Napier, the chief engineer of the department, have made notable contributions to the work of the Department under Mr. Lougheed. They have shown enthusiasm coupled with the hardest kind of work in supporting and carrying out the policies of the Department, as, indeed, have all concerned with the problem of providing better and safer roads to meet the growing exigencies of traffic in British Columbia.

Mr. Lougheed has been succeeded in the office of Minister of Public Works by Mr. R. W. Bruhn, who will find the Department in an admirably organized condition. Mr. Bruhn, too, is a man of action with a wide knowledge of the affairs of the province. That knowledge is of the practical kind which can be translated into policies calculated to promote development. A man of high character, with vision, and of the fearless type, Mr. Bruhn should be well qualified to carry on a great programme that is already rounding out so substantially to the progress of the province. As an active Minister we venture to predict that he will prove a tower of strength to the Government from every angle, and particularly in the manner in which he can be relied upon to carry to their full fruition the admirable policies of road improvements and additions to traffic facilities inaugurated by his predecessor in office.

If religion, which touches the mainspring of conscience, will not make people good it is a million to one against law proving a better solvent of morality.

Mr. Charles Dawes says that "nothing is more certain than the coming business recovery"; except perhaps that day must follow night.

AT GRAY'S INN

Bear him to us, to our home—
Home he adored, and exalted
To heights it had never attained
Since Verulam faded in shadow.
Hither he came unbidden;
Hence went he forth to the conquest.
Armed at all points for the field,
Panopied; wielding all weapons
Fealty—no felon bow striking—
Winning his spurs in fair fight,
Winning stern foemen's affection.

Most must we mourn him, who best
Knew him, and loved him intensely.
Loved e'en his faults—he was mortal.
With brethren now leave him awhile—
Ere earth, unkindly, receive him—

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

The man that hath no music in himself, Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, Is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils: The medicine of his spirit is silence. And his affections dark as Krabs. Let no such man be trusted.

The police of Vancouver, under their new chief, have not made a particularly marked success of suppressing crime, but they have a way of their own of dealing with criminals. It appears there is a policeman's chorus in Vancouver as there was a fine policeman's chorus in "The Pirates of Penzance." A few days ago the Vancouver policemen's chorus made a special trip to Westminster and serenaded the inmates of the penitentiary. Notwithstanding the expressed opinion of the great poet that the man without music in his soul is capable of committing all sorts of crimes and excesses, it does not follow that all men who have stepped out of the beaten path of rectitude are not susceptible to the charm of a grand concord of sweet sounds.

At any rate, the inmates of the Westminster penitentiary who may have trembled on occasion at the sound of the policeman's whistle were reduced to an entirely different state of mind by the sound of the harmonious voices of the policemen when raised in song. The tamed criminals were reduced to such an amiable state of mind that they even joined in the choruses of the songs of their lawful enemies, the policemen. The tamed criminals even went further than that. They put one of their number up to give a recitation which was so appropriate to the extraordinary and unique occasion and so dramatically delivered that even the hard-boiled hearts of the prison officials were emotionally moved and the corridors and the cells resounded with "salvos" of applause. A vote of thanks was moved by a "fifer," seconded by a brother of high degree, and carried unanimously with tumultuous cheers.

The spirit of such a unique occasion should be encouraged, not scoffed at and damned with faint praise. That spirit is in accord with the general trend of the times. Why should there be strife between policemen and criminals when constabulary duties have been done and the burglar (or whatever his special occupation may be) is not occupied in crime? Specialists who profess to know all that is to be known about the vagaries of the human mind and the emotions of the human heart tell us that no man or woman is naturally inclined to be vicious or criminal—that those who fall are the victims of circumstances or environment—that the criminal cannot be turned from the error of his ways by repressive measures. Therefore it is not the criminal who must be reformed. The reformation of the social and legal order must be effected through the reformation of society itself. When the happy day of the social and legal millennium dawns there will be no law-breakers, for there will be no man-made laws to be broken. There will be no criminals and no police forces.

Considering this profound principle in a wider and broader sense, there will be no more wars. The national outcast, like the individual outcast, will be unknown. The propagandist who has a profound faith in the natural goodness and pacifism of humanity is looking forward in hope and confidence to the day when men would rather shall brothers be at "at." That is a glorious vision, but for the present it must be considered the dream of a visionary.

Considering what is going on in certain countries at the present time, the fact is apparent that the world in spots, if not at large, is more inclined to belligerency than pacifism. Mussolini is making fiery appeals to the Italians to be prepared for war and to aim at conquest. Russia maintains that her present position must be maintained by force and her future prospects attained by aggression. France anticipates and is preparing for trouble. The situation in Germany is troubled and uncertain.

The internal conditions everywhere are quite as unsettled as the external conditions. Trade is bad, industry is depressed, taxation is oppressive, and finances are strained. The rule from the beginning has been that the weak shall be victims of the strong. That rule has been applied to nations as well as to individuals. No longer is "the fear of hell a hangman's whip to hound the wretch in order." The nations which incline their ears to the fervid appeals of emotional idealists to disarm, trust in the generosity of men, and risk the consequences will be taking terrible chances.

The forces of the law and the forces of disorder may be stinging shrouses in union, but the lion and the lamb are not yet lying down together.

gether without danger to the lamb. It is a fine thing to have confidence in the benign intentions of your neighbor, but it is a sensible thing to remember that even the best of neighbors may be tempted to seize an advantage if he sees one, and the richer the plunder the greater the temptation. A nation may surely take ample measures to defend itself without being charged with preparing for aggression.

SPANNING OF SEYMOUR

Mr.—To make the following quotation fit, I have altered slightly: "The sayings (lives) of great men all remind us." It is interesting to note that two of our great men should make use of the same expression when dealing with important undertakings. In one of my former letters I quoted Oliver, of Alberta, wherein he made the following statement: "The bridging of Seymour Narrows is of national importance." The Hon. Dr. T. D. Pattullo, of the P.C.E., made the following remark: "The building of the P.C.E. is of national importance." (See Colonist, October 22.) Surely after the above statements, and both emanating from such high sources, they are correct, and both projects demand equal attention.

The quotations made apply to the building of railway, but at this later date automobile roads and automobile trucks will take from the railways some of the transportation advantages now enjoyed by them; therefore to build toll suspension bridges and a toll road via Seymour Narrows would not only be of "national importance," but would be doing that work in a right up-to-date manner.

The flexibility of the automobile truck and road and how their competition is proving a friendly rival (help in some ways) to the railway is described in The Colonist, page 20, October 21 last, wherein the moving of the great cotton crop in the southern States by automobile trucks has demonstrated the advantages of automobile roads and the automobile.

The same movement is in full swing in South America; in fact, it is world-wide, and the day is not far distant when the railway will work hand in hand with the automobile. The Literary Digest is authority for the statement that the enormous sum of six billion dollars a year will be invested in trunk and automobile roads in the United States yearly during the next ten years, clearly showing the wonderful strides that are being made in the provision for the ever-increasing output of automobiles.

In California there is one auto to every 2.5 persons, in that State.

This vast horde will invade Vancouver Island more and more if we open up inviting fields for them, and the most attractive field that is provided, not overlooking the West Coast roads and beaches, is the Seymour Narrows, toll bridges and toll road, unveiling magnificent scenery quite equal to any found in any other part of the world, forming the grandest loop road on the Pacific Coast, of advantage to both Vancouver and Victoria. The Southern tourist traffic, passing through Vancouver along the Cariboo Road north, later will reach to Alaska.

How B.C. Joined Canada

Story of Confederation as Told by The Colonist, Which Championed the Cause of Union

By NINA NAPIER, M.A.

REPLYING to the attack of Mr. Wood, John Robson, member for New Westminster and editor of The British Columbian, admitted that while the committee in Victoria was not authorized to speak for the whole of British Columbia, it had certainly reflected the feeling of the people. The only reason for Mr. Wood's opposition to the scheme that was at last tenable was British Columbia's isolation, and he took occasion to point out that the colony was no farther from Ottawa than it was from Downing Street. It was the desire of the Imperial Government that the whole of British America should be under one government, and there was no doubt that British Columbia would be joined to the Confederacy, even against its will.

The Hon. J. S. Helmecken now entered the debate. He had seconded the resolution in favor of Confederation at the previous session, but now he stated that he would never have done so had he known the course that had been taken by its advocates. No one had been authorized to make an offer to Canada, and as for the committee in Victoria representing the colony, he observed that even in that city few people cared about union one way or the other.

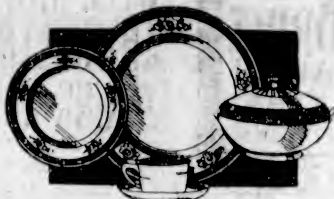

For himself, went on the speaker, he was now in favor of delaying the whole scheme. Like many people in the colony, he wanted to see how the new machine would work. Besides, this was not a propitious moment for opening negotiations, when British Columbia was in financial straits, and could not dictate terms of admission. That it could be confederated against its will he did not believe; its destinies were in its own hands, and Great Britain would never compel it to join Canada. In any case, he concluded, it was useless to talk of terms or of overland roads, until the intervening territory was joined to the Confederacy.

Two other speakers favored the amendment. Henry Ball, of New Westminster, and J. D. Pemberton, of Victoria. The former was of the opinion that the idea of union was premature. He pointed out that even if a road were built across the prairies, that would be no guarantee of an increase of population in British Columbia. The Hudson's Bay Territory would absorb much of the flow of immigration long before any surplus reached the Pacific colony. In any case, British Columbia would always have the right to dictate its own terms to Canada, since it held the gate to the Pacific.

Mr. Pemberton observed that at least two-thirds of the members of the Council seemed opposed to Confederation at the present time, and no doubt they represented the people. He would support the amendment, as he considered this was not the best time for originating the offer to the Canadian Government, when the colony was only just emerging from a state of great depression.

The address and resolution found another supporter in George Walkem, member for Cariboo. By passing the amendment, he said, the Council was merely postponing a decision which must be made eventually, since union with Canada was, without any doubt, the destiny of the colony. Those who opposed the scheme seemed to think some great sacrifice was entailed, whereas under the terms proposed by De Cosmo the colony would give up nothing compared to the financial aid it would receive.

Real Estate Board Protests Against Disregard of Its Views

COUNCIL WILL HEAR VIEWS OF COMMITTEE

The Real Estate Board of the city has instructed its zoning committee to wait upon the City Council next Wednesday at the public hearing regarding the subject of the amendments to the zoning by-law and press for the acceptance of the recommendations of the board made last April, in whole or in part. It will further be urged upon the council that the by-law and its amendments be annulled and a new by-law embodying the views of the Real Estate Board be enacted.

To this resolution, which was moved by David Leeming and seconded by James Forman, and carried, Major H. Culbert Holmes registered his objections at the luncheon meeting of the board.

Mr. Leeming, in presenting the views of the zoning committee of the board, pointed out that the recommendations which had been made to the council were largely along the line of the principles involved rather than the actual zoning areas.

Under the Provincial act there was no appeal from the Zoning Board. Redress would lie through the courts. Under the British act the City Council only. It was felt there should be leave to appeal to compensation was allowed for injurious effects being obtained.

INSTANCES CASES
He instanced cases which were regarded as important and which had not been given attention. He recommended that where a store or similar class of building was allowed, say on a corner lot, there should be permission to use the next lot to it for a similar use. The following lot should then be open for buildings of the next class and so on.

Again Mr. Leeming alluded to the fact that there were streets in the city which at considerable expense had been widened and made adaptable for stores, garages and similar lines of business. Hillside Avenue, Gorge Road, Quadra as far as Hillside, Pandora Avenue and Fort Street and others were named in this class. He could not see why these should be cut out as business streets.

Again, in the matter of duplex houses, Mr. Leeming was of the opinion that there was little wrong with this class of building and was of the opinion that they should be allowed to be built except in certain places where they were specifically barred.

He was also of the opinion that there should not be a prohibition placed upon the construction of a dwelling house in a section which might be set aside as an industrial one. If a man cared to construct a house in such a district when it was not being used for industrial purposes why should he be debarred from so doing? asked Mr. Leeming.

There should in any event be an appeal allowed to the courts of law against the ruling of the board.

MAJOR HOLMES OBJECTS
The stand of the zoning committee of the Real Estate Board had been endorsed by all the members of the committee with the exception of Major Holmes, who filed his protest at the meeting against the course to be pursued. The matter of zoning had received a great deal of attention at his hands, he explained, while he was a member of the City Council.

It was useless to apply the rules of a hundred years ago to present-day conditions. The fundamental idea of the by-law was to afford security. He disagreed with the proposal to alter the uses of a piece of property according to what was being done with the next lot. He was against the ribbon development as suggested along certain streets. That would kill the value of property back of these streets.

The proposal to allow stores and garages on Quadra Street from North Park Street to Hillside Avenue would have this effect. The evident depression on North Douglas Street was due to a long-standing instance of this "freedom." Fort Street east of Cook St. set would lose in value if it were thrown open to similar "spotty" developments.

"The first zoning by-law gave room enough for business development of all sorts to look after the wants of a population of 250,000, and that should be enough to last Victoria for several decades. Why enlarge those very simple districts for the sake of an occasional commission or sale?" said Major Holmes.

"Another assumption on which the Zoning By-Law is based is that Victoria should preserve its character as a garden city. To annul the by-law would of course annul the valuable safeguard we now have.

"The Town Planning Act directs that due regard shall be paid to the character of the buildings already erected. This obviously means that if a district is predominantly an area of homes it should be kept such, which it will not be if garages, oil stables or stores are allowed to intrude."

On the point of duplex houses, Major Holmes said that, if these were not detrimental, they should be allowed to go up anywhere. He felt that the argument with regard to these was weak. At the same time he was in accord with an appeal being allowed to the courts.

Mr. Foreman pointed out that 60 per cent of the taxes in the city came from real estate. Anything hampering the development of realty was a loss, not alone to the owners, but also to the city. He felt that real estate should be adequately represented on the City Council and alluded to the good work done in the past by men who were so identified with that side of business.

ALDERMAN'S VIEWS
Alderman W. R. Straith, who was present at the meeting as chairman of the City Council's zoning committee, reported that the recommendations of the Real Estate Board had been considered carefully. Some of them were recommended by the council committee, but were thrown out by the council.

On a point that had been raised dealing with the subject of allowing a structural alteration in a building, the council had asked the Union of B.C. Municipalities to recommend an amendment to the act along this line. There were recommendations being made for amending the law with regard to allowing the Zoning Board to make deviations from the rules laid down. This would make the working of the act more elastic and better.

H. G. Garrett, speaking of the experience in Oak Bay expressed the opinion that the prohibition against any appeal from the board was too drastic. He would like to see matters of fact left to the board to decide, but in matters of law he thought there should be an appeal to the County Court Judge.

B.C. CHAMPION WILL EXHIBIT AT CHICAGO

W. G. Gibson, of Ladner, Won High Honors at International Show Last Year

W. G. Gibson, of Ladner, winner of championship honors at the International Hay and Grain Show, held in Chicago last year, has applied for space in the current exhibition, the Department of Agriculture is advised. Mr. Gibson won championships for field peas and red spring wheat last year, besides ranking high in other classes. He is the first from British Columbia to enter the 1930 exhibition, it is stated.

The Ladner champion will this year show field peas, six-row barley, oats, hard red wheat and field beans at the Chicago exhibition, and hopes to repeat his success at the 1930 show, to open on November 29.

Obituary

BURRIS—Mrs. Belle Burris, wife of A. R. Burris, passed away at her home, 4007 Victory Street, Burnaby, on Friday, October 31. The funeral will take place on Monday. Mrs. Burris was born in Chesley, Ont. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss three children, one daughter, Isabel, and two sons, Allan and Fred. Mr. and Mrs. Burris had resided in Victoria for several years before moving to Vancouver.

LAWRIE—The funeral of Percy Lawrie took place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. R. Connell officiating. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages." Among the large gathering of sympathizing friends were the members of the S.O.E. Lodge, attending in a body, and their service at the graveside was conducted by Bro. R. A. Ruffie, past president of Pride of the Island, No. 131, S.O.E., assisted by Bro. A. Weatherill, chaplain. A profusion of beautiful floral designs covered the casket and hearse. The following acted as pallbearers: E. Waller, Walter J. Pinnore, J. R. Saunders, G. A. Okell, C. W. Holliver and Walter Rowson. Interment was made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CURRENT BUILDING RECORD

CREATING WORK IN UNORGANIZED B. C. DISTRICTS

Government Is Caring for Actual Distress by Emergency Programme

EIGHTEEN MUNICIPAL AGREEMENTS PENDING

Work to care for any actual distress in unorganized districts of the province is being launched by the Department of Public Works in many places, where conditions warrant institution of roadwork and other projects as an emergency measure of relief under the Federal scheme, it was stated yesterday by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, acting Minister of Public Works.

This work is being undertaken by the Government entirely apart from aid granted towards the cost of municipal programmes, thirty-four of which have now been ratified, and is designed to benefit those areas in the unorganized districts of the province, in which no other form of relief is possible.

The full details of the plan are not yet available, but adequate provision will be made, having regard to unemployment conditions in these areas. The percentage of unemployment in the province is falling steadily, and the Federal scheme is in operation in a majority of the districts reporting under the plan.

The ratio of unemployed to the population of the areas concerned is now 3.6, having decreased steadily since the inception of the scheme.

Eighteen additional municipal agreements with the Government are pending, having gone out to these centres for signature of the responsible civil officers.

The industries hit hardest by the depression in Peru are cotton, wool, hides and rubber.

The Dial Telephones Are Now in Use

REMEMBER THE SIMPLE RULES

THE dial telephone system is now in use in Victoria. Every Victoria telephone number has been changed. The new numbers appear in the new directory.

Each of the new numbers consists of an exchange name (either "Empire" or "Garden") and four figures.

Dial the first letter of the exchange name.

Then dial each of the four figures.

Before commencing to dial, take the receiver off the hook and listen for the dial tone, a humming sound which tells you that you may begin dialing.

Keep the receiver off the hook while you are dialing.

As soon as you have finished dialing, the telephone you are calling will ring.

Or, if the called line is busy, you will hear the same "busy tone" that you did under the old system.

If you want further instructions dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator who answers.

If you want "Long Distance," dial 110. (No letter to dial).

If you want "Information," dial 113. (No letter to dial).

If you wish to call an Albion, Belmont or Colquitz number, dial the figure "0" (Operator) and give the called number and your own number to the operator who answers.

If you wish to call a Keating number, dial H0 and give the called number and your own number to the long-distance operator who answers.

In an emergency, you may dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator to call the police or fire department, or whatever you require.

If you have a party line, to call another party on your line follow the instructions on Page Six of your new directory.

Complete instructions regarding the dial telephones appear in your telephone directory.

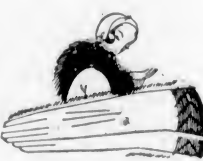

We also have a special dial demonstration office at 620 Fort Street (opposite the Pemberton Building) where our instructors will be glad to show you how to use the dial telephones. It will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, commencing Monday.

MADE STUDY OF HOSPITALS ON EUROPEAN TOUR

Henry Whittaker, Chief Architect for Department of Works, Returns

TO DRAFT PLANS FOR U.B.C. INSTITUTION

Valuable data on the design and equipment of leading hospitals and mental institutions in Great Britain and Europe have been secured for the province by Henry Whittaker, chief architect for the Department of Public Works, who returned to the city yesterday. Mr. Whittaker will present a detailed report to the Government.

In his survey of European cities Mr. Whittaker found much of interest in regard to his special study of psychiatric hospitals. Existing provincial institutions at Escondido compare favorably with the best that Europe has to offer, the chief architect found.

The tour was undertaken preparatory to the drafting of plans for a proposed new psychiatric hospital for the province, provision for which may be suggested to the next session of the Legislature. Much useful material was gathered as a result of the mission undertaken by Mr. Whittaker at the request of the department.

Just Roamin' Around

"Wake up! Rover! It's the second of November and you have to be roamin' around early today, to indulge in the newest sport—'Dialing'."

"What's that?" asked Rover raised himself up to sit on his haunches and look at me.

"Dialing," said I, reproachfully. "It's the very latest fad, old thing! Movies, radio, flying, talking, going to school, and so on, they are all old-fashioned on corner lots, and now—Dialing."

"Wait 'til a mo', I've gotta 'phone my girl!" It's old stuff—passé; but, if you really want to experience a "keen" thrill, the very latest is to say: "Attend me a second, I've got to 'dial' my lady friend!" and it's all because the B.C. Telephone Company is plus ultra up-to-date.

They are the city garden's dial, for they "record only the sunny hours." They are the acme of dialistatist experimentalists. Gosh! Rover! what more can I say of them?

The demonstration of the past few weeks not only affords subscribers education in dialing, but also demonstrated the actual operation of putting through calls and what happens to the call at the central office.

New telephone directories have been issued, which contain the new automatic numbers, and, best of all, Rover, the young and obliging demonstrators are most attractive and attentive."

"When we get flush again, Rover, we'll put in a monetary note in our business; but we have got to wait a while. The monophone is the 'up-to-date' type of telephone, and is a smart piece of equipment for our bachelor diggings, and no mistake."

"And by having an extension monophone, we will be the cat's pyjamas," Rover said. This last phrase quite upset my old pal, but he forgave me my reference to an enemy's nightie.

Be sure to get the neatly-printed pamphlet: "How to Use the Dial Telephone in Victoria," which is issued by the B.C. Telephone Co.

And here's our kick: Rover and I can still talk to our friends, write to our friends, and our friends, but, no longer will we be able to hear a sweet, soft voice answer as we request the heretofore number that stood for the party we wished to converse with.

"Wrong number, please consult your phone book! Line Busy!" or "Sorry! but there is no one on your line, now!"

Ah, me! We knew such charming telephone girls, too! Gone are the girls, whose voices, sweet and low, Ofttimes we heard, in days long ago.

And, though we dial now, this sad fact I know: No darned time-saving dial can such charms bestow!

Metchosin

Mr. Alex Spier, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. W. Luley, left on Thursday on the Empress of Japan for Java, where he is one of the directors of the British and American Tobacco Company. He is stationed in Samarang. On his way over from England to Victoria, he also visited the tobacco fields in Virginia, U.S.A.

A Halloween concert was held on Friday afternoon, October 31, when the pupils of Metchosin school got up a programme on their own responsibility for their teachers and parents.

In a recent fire at Roubaix, France, nearly 5,000 bales of wool were destroyed.

Fireworks—Expensive—Halloween pranks of boys are held responsible for fire which did damage estimated at $100, at 230 Henry Street, at 3:34 o'clock yesterday morning. The blaze is said to have been started by fireworks.

Civil Servants' Meeting—Owing to the fact that their regular meeting has been changed from the first Monday to the second Tuesday in the month, the Victoria local council of civil servants will not convene tomorrow.

Cuts Gasoline Price—A practical step has been made in the direction of reducing the price of gasoline in the city. The price has been cut to thirty cents by one garage, and it is announced that price will prevail there until further notice.

Near East Relief—The following donations were received by F. Landsberg, local treasurer, Save the Children and Near East Relief Funds, for the month of October: A first, $1,250. Further donations will be gratefully acknowledged by Mr. Landsberg, at 737 Fort Street.

Reunion Dinner—All officers and men who served in H.M.C.S. Rainbow or Nobe in 1910, who desire to attend the reunion dinner on Friday, November 7, are requested to attend a meeting which will be held at 7 p.m. on Monday, November 3, at the Naval Veterans' Clubrooms, corner of Broad and Johnson Streets.

Scottish Rite Masons—Upwards of thirty brethren of the Scottish Rite Masons visited in Victoria yesterday, arriving from the Mainland Saturday morning. A business session was held in the shrine at 8 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 6:30 the visitors were guests at the banquet at the Shrine Temple, which was followed by a social evening.

Administration Granted—In connection with the following estates probate or administration proceedings were taken during the past week: Andrew Trulson, who died in Regina, August 9, 1930, British Columbia estate $1,725; James L. Brown, of Langford Lake, who died, October 12, 1930, estate $10,729; Eunice G. Sauntyr, of St. Paul, Minn., who died, March 6, 1930, British Columbia estate $2,000.

Plan Apartment Houses—Plans are being made for the construction of two more apartment houses in Victoria, according to word received yesterday from John Moxam, who is contemplating the erection of the buildings to cost approximately $25,000 each. One is to be located on Linden Avenue and one on Cook Street. It is understood work is to be started shortly under the supervision of Percy Fox, Victoria architect.

Willows By-Law—To provide for an expenditure of approximately $70,000 for improvements to Willows fair grounds and the construction of two additional buildings, a by-law will be introduced at the regular meeting of the City Council on Monday night. The by-law was requested by the British Columbia Agricultural Association. Of the proposed expenditures the ratepayers of Victoria will be asked to provide $30,000, the balance to be arranged by the Provincial Government.

Registration Nears End—All bond and brokerage houses trading in British Columbia will be registered before this week ends, it is expected, following action taken by companies who have completed the process to put their applications in order. Applications from all known firms are now in, and the last of these will be approved within the next few days, it is believed. Registration will continue, of course, as new companies, and realignments of older agencies are brought into effect from time to time.

PRISON BREAK UNSUCCESSFUL

Convict Killed and Two Wounded in Battle at Sing Sing

RIOT IS SHORT LIVED

OSBURNING, N.Y., Nov. 1.—An attempted escape of four prisoners from Sing Sing Prison was frustrated tonight. One was killed, another was wounded, a third was overcome by tear gas and the fourth surrendered.

The twenty-three-acre prison yard was transformed into an armed camp within a few minutes after news of the attempted escape became known. Equipped with machine guns, riot guns and tear gas bombs, a force of prison guards and Ossining city police engaged three of the rebels in a miniature pitched battle in which a guard was wounded before they were subdued.

The four escaped from cell house "A," near the thirty-foot walls around the prison, after locking five keepers in a storage room.

What's Your Do, do with your might?

But first be sure that you are right.—Old Mother Nature.

Impy, the black chipmunk, hadn't lived long enough to have the dom of his father, Sir Impy, Chipmunk. When pretty little Mrs. Impy insisted that the entrance to their home should be closed and another entrance made, Impy didn't agree with her at all. It seemed to him like a waste of time and energy. That was a perfectly good entrance they had and he could see no reason for making another.

"I suppose you think that Shadow the Weasel has gone for good," said Mrs. Impy.

"Why not?" said Impy. "Why should he return when he couldn't find anyone here?"

"I guess you don't know Shadow very well," said Mrs. Impy. "Shadow doesn't forget. When he was at home when he made his last visit, but he knows that somebody lives here. The first time that he passes this way again he'll stop to visit this house of ours. If we have an open door he is going to come right in, and what chance will we have if he surprises us? We haven't got to give up our home, no, sir, we haven't got to give up our home. All we need to do is to build a new entrance and close the old one. Just plain common sense says that is the thing to do."

Impy wasn't convinced, but he said nothing. He had learned who was head of the household, wherein he was smarter than some people I know. Having found out who was head of the household, he was wise enough to let the head have his way. It saved a lot of argument and trouble, and in the end the results were the same.

"All right, my dear," said Impy. "If you say we must have a new doorway, it is all right with me. Where shall it be?"

"I've got a place already chosen," said little Mrs. Impy, who, as you may have discovered, was a very practical person. She wanted what she wanted when she wanted it. At the same time she knew what it was she wanted.

"Shall I begin filling up this entrance?" inquired Impy, and started to push some sand in.

"Yes," replied little Mrs. Impy, "but not from the outside. I'm afraid you haven't been well trained, Impy. The idea of closing that door from the outside, telling everybody

THOUSANDS GREET QUEEN GIOVANNA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 1.—Bulgaria's youngest generation is a little disappointed in the lovely Giovanna whom King Boris has brought home to reign as his queen.

For one thing, she didn't wear a crown and ermine robes today as she stood on a palace balcony beside the handsome Boris while 200,000 school children marched by, cheering and tossing bouquets at the royal pair.

She was more like a big sister, flashing a tender smile at the tiniest of her subjects who came close to hand their flowers over the balcony, than like a queen whom one sees only in the movies.

But Giovanna won the hearts of the more mature Bulgarians in this day's celebration. She smiled for two hours with the sun in her eyes and she refused to sit down.

Her subjects were almost lyrical in her praise tonight and in every quarter of the city it was evident that her tender sympathy for the children today held rich promises for her lifelong popularity in the future.

This morning the queen attended the All-Saints Day Mass in the private Catholic chapel of the palace, and later went, with her husband, to the Orthodox Mass in the cathedral in honor of the national saint-hero, Ivan Rilsky. Their arrival was limited to avoid the crowd which had gathered in expectation of an earlier arrival. Giovanna, it appeared, has been granted a special ecclesiastical dispensation permitting her to attend ceremonies of the Orthodox church when they have national Bulgarian significance so that her appearance on such occasions might not be misconstrued.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL LENDS PATRONAGE TO COMING CONCERT

Information has been received from Ottawa that His Excellency the Governor-General, Viscount Willingdon, is pleased to extend his patronage to the Arion Club's one hundredth regular concert. ROYAL OAK

A successful silver tea was held in Royal Oak Hall on Thursday. The tables were decorated with Autumn flowers by Mrs. Pinhorn. A miscellaneous stall was under the chairmanship of Mesdames Oldfield, Grieves and Reed. Tea was under the chairmanship of Mesdames McQueen, Nicholson, Massey and Watson. Mrs. Schorfield gave an interesting talk on institute work in England and exhibited some beautiful work. At the card party in the evening five hundred was played. The winners were Mesdames Milne, Thomas and Grieves, Mrs. Jones, and Messrs. Barker and H. H. Reed. The regular monthly meeting of the institute will be held on November 6 in order to discuss plans for the Thanksgiving Fair.

Shadow Does Return

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

He seemed to be hunting for something he couldn't find what you are doing! The only way to close a door is to close it from the inside. Then you can pack the entrance half full and there will be no chance of being dug out."

So little Mrs. Impy went to work to make the new entrance, and she also worked from the inside. While she was doing this Impy was closing the old entrance. So it was that in course of time, the chipmunk home had a new entrance in quite another spot. All the time he was at work Impy thought it was all foolishness. He didn't think Shadow would come back. However, he was wise enough to say nothing.

Three days after the new entrance had been made and the old one closed Impy was sitting on the top of a fence post. By chance he caught a glimpse of a brown form moving swiftly. His heart almost stopped beating. It was Shadow, the Weasel, beyond a doubt. Straight to the very place where the old entrance to Impy's home had been went Shadow the Weasel. There he stopped and began to look all about. There was a puzzled expression on his face. He seemed to be hunting for something that he couldn't find, and he was quite unable to understand why he couldn't find it. He ran rapidly this way and that way, with his nose to the ground. At last he gave up, and with a snarl bounded away.

"You see, he did come back," whispered a voice in Impy's ear. "Yes, my dear," replied Impy. "You were right, as you always are. I am glad we had this new entrance."

Speaks to American Women by Radio

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Church of Our Lord, Redeemed Episcopate, last night when Rev. A. deB. Owen united in marriage Beesie Kemmis, daughter of Mr. Thomas Kemmis, of Alberta, and Mr. Sam Boorman, son of Mr. George Boorman, of Coombs, B.C. They were attended by Miss Mary North and Mr. Thomas Skinner. The bride was becomingly attired in a frock of brown crepe-back satin cut in the fashionable princess style, and wore a small brown hat to match and carried a spray of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Boorman left later for a wedding trip to Coombs, the bride traveling in a pretty dress of red crepe and hat to match and a brown cloth overcoat. They will make their home on their return at 810 Courtney Street.

MARY AGNES HAMILTON
Asserting that the women in the United States have not made as favorable a name for their sex in the musical world as have their English sisters, Mary Agnes Hamilton, British member of Parliament, spoke to a transatlantic audience by means of the radio on the subject of "Women in Politics."

Weddings

BOORMAN-KEMMIS
A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Church of Our Lord, Redeemed Episcopate, last night when Rev. A. deB. Owen united in marriage Beesie Kemmis, daughter of Mr. Thomas Kemmis, of Alberta, and Mr. Sam Boorman, son of Mr. George Boorman, of Coombs, B.C. They will make their home on their return at 810 Courtney Street.

STABLES-FOSTER

A pretty wedding was solemnized last night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. F. W. McKinnon, Sanich Road, when he united in matrimony, Erma Dornie, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Foster, and Mr. Charles Frederick Stables, son of Mrs. Stables, 501 Ardair Road. The bride and groom were unattended. Given in marriage by her father the bride looked charming in a frock of white silk tulle net. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and pale pink carnations, and wore a picture hat of white mohair trimmed with white faille ribbon.

About seventy-five guests attended the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, 1172 Oxford Street, which had been charmingly arranged with masses of chrysanthemums for the occasion. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving their friends by Mrs. Foster. The supper table was centred with the wedding cake, and was decorated with vases of pink carnations and tall pink candles, and white ribbon streamers suspended from the chandelier. Mrs. Stables left later for a honeymoon in Seattle, and on their return will make their home at Cloverdale. For traveling the bride chose a smart frock of dark brown flat crepe, a close-fitting hat of brown felt and a blue velvet coat with mink collar and cuffs. Among the gifts was a silver fruit basket from the staff of the Metropolitan Chain Stores, of which the bride had been a member.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY
ASSISTS SOLARIUMClever Costumes Win Prizes—Many Gifts Received for Crippled Children's Home at Malahat

The Lake Hill Women's Institute's children's annual Halloween party and shower in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled children was held yesterday evening, and again proved a most gratifying success.

Those taking part in the programme were Effie Cooper, Scotch reel; Clifford Kirchin, song; Raymond Porter and Reginald Porter, vocal duet; Betty Whitaker, acrobatic dance; Catherine Gray, recitation; Fay Whitaker and Patricia Hutchison, girls' butterfly dance.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Winners of the costume contest were selected with difficulty from the big group of cleverly and artistically dressed boys and girls, being as follows:

Best dressed girl, Joan Saul, snowball; best-dressed boy, Jimmy Williams, "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Best Halloween dress, girl, Dorrie

Green, witch; boy, Welma Davis, black cat.

Best comic, girl, Evelyn Druce, cullah'd bride; boy, Norman Myles, hobo.

Special, Jean Currie, Solarium nurse.

Lady Lake, Mrs. Potter and Miss Bruce were the judges.

Mrs. Moody, who led the procession in the picturesque dress of a witch riding a broomstick, later presided over a steaming cauldron from which she drew forth candies for the winners.

W. I. PRESENT

Most of the members of the Lake Hill Women's Institute were present, including the president, Mrs. J. Scott; the vice-president, Mrs. Currie, who convened the supper; Mrs. R. W. Mercer and Mrs. P. Sherrett, who convened the affair; Mrs. Sherrett also supplying the music for the grand march; and Mrs. W. Peddle, Mrs. W. Peden, of the Victoria Women's Institute, was also present.

Walter Peddle was master of ceremonies.

A big collection of fruit and vegetables, bottled fruits and other useful supplies was given for the Solarium, as well as an appreciable sum in cash.

SCHOLAR AND AUTHOR
TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Mr. John Bird, who is to address a special meeting of the Women's Canadian Club tomorrow afternoon at the Empress Hotel, is traveling through Canada under the auspices of the Association of Canadian Clubs, with a sheet of subjects, from which he has been asked to speak here on "Great Britain, Canada, and the United States—Is Canada a Link?"

Mr. Bird was born in Natal, South Africa, his father being Christopher Bird, C.M.G., permanent secretary to the Government of Natal. He was educated at Bedford School, England, and at Clongowes Wood College, Ireland. He ranked first in the open Irish classical scholarship in 1917 and 1918, and won the Irish Latin medal and the school gold medal for the English Essay in 1918.

As an undergraduate at Trinity College, Oxford, he took an active part in various college activities, being president and secretary of the Elizabethan Society, the Ascham Club, and other clubs and literary societies. He is an Oxford blue, and ran for the University in the Oxford-Cambridge sports.

As first Davidson scholar to Harvard University, he won a scholarship which is offered to only very outstanding graduates of British universities for study in American universities, and graduated from Harvard with an A.B. Since then he has held editorial positions in the United States, and has traveled widely throughout South Africa, Europe, the United States, the West Indies and Canada.

Back From Crooning Tour

MILDRED HUNT, contralto crooner of the National Broadcasting Company, who has been known to millions of listeners as "Radio's Sweetheart," since the early days of broadcasting, returned from a three-month tour of Europe on the S. ENGLISH NOVELIST
MARRIES BANKER

SURREY, England, Nov. 1.—Miss Rebecca West, one of England's foremost novelists, was married here this afternoon to Henry Maxwell Andrews, a London banker.

England enjoyed this wedding, recalling that not so long ago Rebecca West had referred to the average British husband as "a perfect nuisance," and this, she wrote in a critical article, was an opinion shared by the whole stratum of "domesticated upper and middle-class Englishwomen."

On the other hand, she wrote, it is eugenically unsound to demand intellectual women stand aside while their sweet, clinging sisters march to the altar with the flower of British manhood.

"Why," she demanded, "should the nation be denied enrichment of its people through motherhood of its choice stock?"

Rebecca West was a pen name. This bride was born thirty-seven years ago, Cicely Isabel Fairfield, the daughter of Charles Fairfield, of County Kerry, Ireland; at seventeen she began a brief stage career as "Rebecca West" in Isben's "Rosmerholm," and when she turned to writing she had a nom de plume all ready.

It was in 1911 she began to attract notice as a book reviewer on the staff of The Free Women; later she was writing politics for The Clarion, and since has contributed to many publications here and in the United States. Some of her novels have attracted wide critical praise.

British railways carried 7,884,000 more passengers in the first six months of this year than in the corresponding period of 1929.

When a player is vulnerable, that is, has scored one game towards rubber at Contract, he must of necessity use a great deal of precaution in jumping in to high bids, particularly where partner has passed.

In such case the penalty is very great, for the failure to fulfill contract by three tricks entails a loss of 1,000 points if doubled.

On the other hand, if one is not vulnerable, he may readily overbid in an effort to save the game, for the penalty of three undertricks would be but 400. This loss would be thoroughly justifiable if the side which has bid for game happens to be vulnerable, and would consequently make a rubber. When either side is vulnerable, one should not risk a probability of more than three.

In the above deal neither side was vulnerable and North and South would have scored just about a stand-off had they bid six Diamonds, but such bid would not have been advisable from either one, for as far as North knows, he would probably be defeated by more than three tricks, and as far as South can tell there would exist a probability of driving East and West into a successful slam bid. Accordingly their bidding should stop at Contract with North's bid of five Diamonds over West's bid of four Hearts.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Contract: South, West and North pass and East opens the bidding with one Heart. South passes and West, who was slightly lacking the requirements for an original Spade bid as second hand, and who holds five Hearts to the Jack, bids four Hearts. As East and West apparently have a sure game, North bids five Diamonds in an effort to save game. East bids five Hearts, concluding the bidding.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE AT PORT ALBERNI

PORT ALBERNI, Nov. 1.—The annual Halloween masquerade dance, held by the Alberni Volunteer Fire Department in the Community Hall, Port Alberni, on Friday evening, proved to be a great success in every way. The judges were Mr. Jack Hills, Mrs. Newell Wright and Mrs. Ian Davidson, and the prize winners were: Best dressed gentleman, John Bohie, in Spanish costume; best dressed lady, Miss Hazel Young, as a peacock; best dressed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Burdette, representing Charles II courtiers; best dressed gentlemen, Mr. L. Dahl; best comic lady, Mrs. Magoni; best comic couple, W. Ramsay and Martin Clausen; best home-made costume, Mrs. M. Clausen dressed as a court lady to Queen Elizabeth; best original costume, Sadie Miles; best national dress, Mrs. R. Hamilton; best comic group, dressed as four Highlanders, Miss Margaret Redford, Effie Redford, Nell Burke and Bell Patterson.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Estlin, Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Couthard, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Story of United Church Union Is Told by Dr. Chown

Genesis of Important Event in Canadian Church Life Was at Winnipeg in 1902—Much Delayed Consummation Took Place in Toronto June 10, 1925

Canada Shows Unionizing Tendency

A NOTABLE contribution has been made to the popular question of church union in the publication by The Ryerson Press of "The Story of Church Union in Canada," by Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., LL.D. Himself the administrative head of the Methodist Church for many years and member of the Joint Union Committee from the initial stages to the supreme moment when he pronounced the word which united three denominations into one, as well as the frequent presiding officer of the committee, Dr. Chown is peculiarly well fitted to make the survey.

The genesis of the movement, which culminated in the union in June 10, 1925, of the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian churches is found by the author in a speech delivered by Principal Patrick, of Manitoba College, Winnipeg, as delegate of the Presbyterian Assembly to the general conference of the Methodist Church, meeting in Winnipeg in 1902. It was, Dr. Chown states, "a passionate appeal for the unification of Methodists and Presbyterians in Canada." The Methodist and Congregational response to this unofficial overture led to the appointment of a joint union committee, which at its first meeting in Toronto in 1905 declared itself to be "of one mind that organic union is both desirable and practicable."

VOTE ON BASIS OF UNION

By the end of 1908 the Basis of Union was ready to be dealt with by the three churches. It is noted by the author that in 1908 a friendly letter was sent to the Church of England in Canada and to the Canadian Baptists. The former, in reply, put the Lamberth Quadrilateral of 1888, which involves the episcopacy as essential to a valid ordination, as the basis of negotiations. The Baptists replied that they must retain a separate organization to accomplish their task in the world. In the vote on organic union that took place in 1911, the Presbyterian communicants voted 106,755 for and 48,278 against. The Methodist decision was given as 150,841 for and 24,257 against. Of 10,689 Congregational members, 2,903 stood for and 913 against.

The considerable minority in the Presbyterian Church not in favor of union led to the submission, according to the narrator, of a second unfavorable vote in 1915-16, following which the General Assembly of 1918 resolved after "a very long and heated debate" to unite, and a committee was appointed to carry out the policy of the assembly, the committee to report to the first assembly following the end of the first year after the close of the war. In 1921, in Toronto, the assembly again took favoring action and proceeded through its committee to effect union. In this step it is a matter of general knowledge that a large minority of Presbyterians—generally computed to be about one-third—did not participate.

MANY UNIONS IN CANADA

That Canadian soil was favorable to the union spirit is shown in a chart and historical review prepared by the late Dr. Gunn. This review shows that from the first organic union in 1817 in Canada, which was that of three Presbyterian groups, until the formation of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in 1875, there were nine different unions of Presbyterians, inclusive of nearly two dozen separate groups or units. A similar amalgamating tendency was at work in Methodism, which had eight unions, beginning with 1820 and ending in 1884.

This unionizing tendency in Canadian life springs, according to the distinguished author, from three causes—spiritual, patriotic and economic. There was the urge toward fellowship, which, it was felt by many, involved organic union; there was the patriotic desire to Christianize the immense territory shortly to be populated by millions of foreigners, and there was the expense of what is termed "unseemly rivalry." As an ardent believer in church union, Dr. Chown finds that the venture was justified in such results as the amalgamation of 600 churches in local unions, an increased giving of 25 per cent, the merging of fifteen theological colleges into eight, and the rapid blending of the three hitherto diverse streams of denominational life.

DR. CHOWN WAIVES CLAIM

Very simply the story is told of the glad solemnities of the inauguration of the new church, which were held in the Arena in the city of Toronto on June 10, 1925. Seven thousand people took part in what was universally held to be a highly inspirational service, over which the presiding officers were Drs. S. D. Chown, G. A. Pidgeon and W. H. Warriner, representing the three uniting churches. The newly created Christian fellowship was greatly moved by an incident not mentioned by Dr. Chown, his self-effacing act when he waived his claim of seniority to nominate as the first moderator of the United Church of Canada, Dr. George A. Pidgeon, the last moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly.

Appendices containing the United Church of Canada Act, the Creed and the Constitution, give additional value to this interesting resume of an important event in the church life of Canada, and, it is held by the author, of Christendom at large.

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"

If November 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date are of a very materialistic nature, and it will be difficult to gain the usual benefits of a Sunday. It would be advisable to spend a quiet and somewhat solitary day, to avoid trouble and quarrels. The nervous tension will pass off in time to make the evening hours of more delight and peace.

The child born on this November 2 will have a generous, candid, ardent and high-minded disposition. Pecuniary success is indicated for it, obtained largely through its own efforts. It will carve out its own fate.

It is indicated that you are to some extent a pioneer or innovator, and that you are ambitious for advancement. You are not afraid of independent thought or action, and you are radical in both. Playing for certainties does not appeal to your sporting nature, and you would rather gamble and lose than live a less adventurous life. The act of conquering appeals to you more than the final victory, which brings boredom to one of your nature, and you are always seeking new fields of adventure. You do things impulsively and enthusiastically, and you count your costs afterwards. It can be said, however, that you are a good loser. You are not a clock watcher, and you always do more than is expected of you. Your initiative and your optimism is never cramped by worry, for you refuse to suffer from this malady of the will-power.

You choose your friends indiscriminately as far as class is concerned, and you feel at home in a palace or a hut, with a king or a beggar. You yourself are never affected, and you would not know how to put on airs. You have a careful personality, delightful because of its naturalness and genuineness. You are thoughtful and not unmindful of the little kindnesses which mean so much to those about you. Few people have the chance to see you ill-natured, for there is usually sunshine within your soul. You are passionately fond of children and animals.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3

If November 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 p.m. to noon, and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Fate will not leave you to yourself on this date, and she has promised to help to fill your cup with happiness and to swell your coffers. A cloud darkens your pathway, but it will have the proverbial silver lining. Good for travel and marriage.

The child born on this November 3 will have an anxious nature, and will desire to please the world. It will be conscientious, sincere and sympathetic. It will be a little timid about asking for its just deserts, and will be too easily crushed by adverse circumstances. You have a very "touchy" nature, and you inconvenience and often

CLEARING the Skin

TO ALL of you who are combating bumps and blotches, and longing for the clear color and fine texture of a healthy skin, this advice is directed.

The simplest and most generally useful of healing treatments consists of my Spotpruf Lotion and Spotpruf Cream used in combination. After you have cleansed your skin night and morning with Cleansing Cream, pat with Spotpruf Lotion. At night, pat a thin film of Spotpruf Cream on the affected areas.

For the oily skin with persistent eruptions, begin with an application of Anti-Brown Spot exactly according to directions. R more Anti-Brown Spot with Cleansing Cream and Tissues. Wipe thoroughly and gently. Press out surface gatherings. Pat on Acne Lotion. For daytime, powder directly over the Lotion; at night, follow with Healing Cream, which is left on. Given nightly, this treatment has successfully cleared many cases of acne.

There is not room to give more detailed instructions, but to any of you who are interested I will gladly send my booklet "The Quest of the Beautiful," describing my Preparations fully.

PACIFIC COAST IS OUT FOR TOURISTS

George I. Warren Returns From Visit to Redwood Empire Association

In spite of the fact that business conditions in the Pacific Coast States, in common with other parts of the United States, are anything but good, the residents are bending every effort in making a bid for the tourist trade. This is the information which George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, brings back after a trip which took him south, and during which time he conferred with various organizations connected with the tourist trade.

In Washington and Oregon he was complimented upon the efficient work which was done by the contact men representing the Victoria and District Publicity Bureau. Special praise was given to those in Oregon, Captain F. M. O'Connor in Portland, and R. P. Hunt in Grants Pass.

Mr. Warren attended the meetings of the Redwood Empire Association, which met at Ukiah, and which embraced eight counties in California, and Josephine, in Oregon. The Californian counties are San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte.

The Redwood Empire Highway has been completed with its tremendous possibilities for this district represented, and now there is building a parallel road to this one known as the Highway to the South, which extends from Eureka south.

REMOVE BILLBOARDS
The association is doing much in the way of having billboards removed and drafts of the ordinances to be submitted in this line were obtained by Mr. Warren. There is also a move looking to the better control of auto camps and vendors' stands on the roads. Publicity is being directed to the timber areas along the Redwood Highway and advertising matter in these resorts is being eliminated.

On Friday night, as the main speaker at the Redwood Empire Association, Mr. Warren succeeded in giving the southern part of the coast valuable information concerning the attractions which awaited them on Vancouver Island.

A jurymen asked to be excused as he was dead in one ear. "I don't think that matters," said the judge. "We only hear one side of a case at a time."

HALLOWE'EN TOLL HEAVY IN STATES

Man Shoots Boy at Seattle—Auto Bound for Party at Tacoma—Is Wrecked

SEATTLE, Nov. 1.—W. J. Taylor, painter, was held here for the shooting of Howard Anderson, fourteen, when he and others were about to roll a barrel on Taylor's porch in a Halloween prank last night. Anderson is in a hospital in a serious condition.

AUTO RUNS WILD

TACOMA, Nov. 1.—Halloween gaily turned to tragedy for five Tacoma boys and girls last night when the small coupe in which they were on their way to a party got out of control, ran wild down a steep hill, struck a pedestrian and then plunged over a fifteen-foot embankment to be reduced to a pile of wreckage. One boy and the pedestrian, John Sheenhan, were critically injured.

TWO CHILDREN DIE

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Two fatalities were the toll of Halloween night in New England.
At Fall River, Mass., twelve-year-old Irene Levesque was fatally burned when her paper party dress was ignited by a jack o' lantern carried by another child; and at Westford, Vt., Sidney Peckham, thirteen, was fatally wounded by his sixteen-year-old brother, Ellsworth, who playfully pointed a gun at Sidney, while celebrating Halloween, and pulled the trigger.

INDIANS FOUND WITH LIQUOR ARE FINED

Josiah George, an Indian from Cowichan, pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated and was fined $10 or ten days in jail by Magistrate Jay in the city police court yesterday. His brother, Harry, who was charged with having in his possession a bottle of loganberry wine, did not fare so lightly, however, as the Indian Act makes this a more serious offence than that of being drunk. Harry pleaded guilty, explaining to the court that he and another brother were trying to get Josiah into a rooming-house, when the bottle fell out of the latter's pocket. Harry said that he picked it up and put it in his own pocket rather than leave it on the street. He was fined $25.

Regimental Orders

BATTALION ORDERS PART I
By Lieut.-Col. D. B. Martyn, D.S.O., M.C., Commanding 1st Battalion (16th C.E.F.), the Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria, November 3, 1930.

at once!

Being an external treatment, Vicks is especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids the constant "dosing" which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

More and more mothers every year turn to the double action of Vicks VapoRub in checking colds, coughs, sore throat and spasmodic croup.

Rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages.

This double action of Vicks breaks up congestion and eases breathing, thus preventing the night coughs which so often rob both mother and child of restful sleep.

CHAPTER, XXX

As if his arm were almost too heavy with weariness to lift, Jimmy pressed the buzzer, and sent the answering copy boy for de Lamoth. When Lammoth entered, the city editor had pulled his eyeshade far down over his eyes and sat with bowed head, leaning one elbow on the table. He glanced up briefly at the unexpectedness of Peter's first question.

"Were you in the war, Lammoth?" Peter asked as the door swung shut behind de Lamoth.

"I never got out of training camp—why?"

"Have you got a .45 Colt automatic army pistol?"

"No—yes—I dunno. Maybe it's kicking around somewhere. What's the big idea? Do you want it?"

"Maybe," Peter said non-committally. "Say, de Lamoth, I hate this like blazes, so make it easy. Where did you get that emerald ring?"

"I haven't got any emerald ring. What is this, anyway—an intelligence test?" Peter noted that de Lamoth's Adam's apple jerked spasmodically up and down. He spoke with an uneasy anger.

"You'd better answer him," Jimmy said without looking up.

"I don't know what you're talking about!" de Lamoth protested. But the protest was too quick, too violent.

"I'm talking about a ring with the initials 'de la M' on the top and two big emeralds on each side. You pawned it at Izzy's." Peter threw him the words as an aid. At least he would not hold out on Lammoth, leading him on to lie unnecessarily and futilely. "You'd better spill it."

De Lamoth's face was clammy in its pallor. He passed his hand across his blood-shot eyes.

"Say, are you by any chance butting into my private affairs?" he blurted. "If so, I won't stand for it, from you or anybody else!"

"Tell him, Lammoth," Jimmy's voice was almost inaudible. The green eyeshade hid the expression of his face.

"Well, then, if you must know, it was given to me."

"When?"

"About—a month ago."

"While you were taking time off to visit your sick aunt?" The words were gentle, without irony.

De Lamoth leaned back against the door, his lips stubbornly closed. Jimmy lifted his head. His eyes were infinitely tender, infinitely sad.

"I'd like you to tell the truth—as a favor to me," he said.

De Lamoth's hair clung damply to his forehead. He ignored Peter and turned to Jimmy.

"I lied to you," he said unsteadily. "I lied to keep my job. There wasn't any sick aunt. I was drunk."

"I knew that," Jimmy's head sank again to his hand.

"You knew it?"

"My gosh, I wasn't born yesterday!" Jimmy spoke with a ghost of his old fire.

"But you said—"

"Never mind what I said. I don't care whether you were drunk or not—at least, not that much. Where did you get this ring?"

"It was given to me."

"Better go slow—think it over before you answer," Peter suggested.

"I said it was given to me," de Lamoth whirled on Peter with a belligerent stare. "I say, have you been spying on me, Piper—or what?"

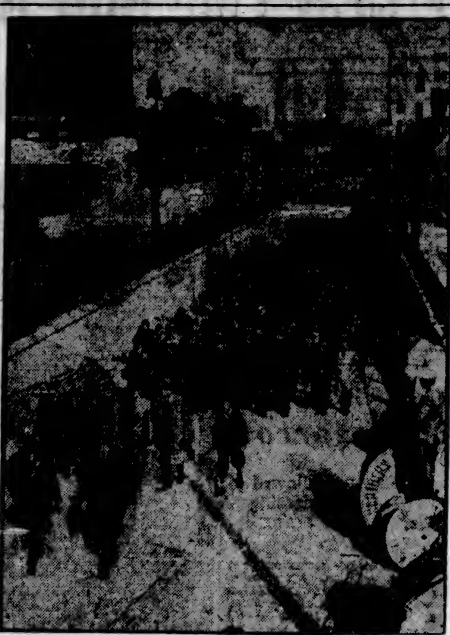

"We'll leave it at 'what' for a moment. Do you mean that somebody just walked up and handed you a ring worth Lord knows how many hundred dollars?"

"I don't know what it's worth—I didn't get much for it from Izzy. I know that," de Lamoth said sulkily. "If you're not going to believe me, we might as well stop right here."

"We can't stop, whether I believe you or not. I'm doing my best to help you to me careful. I think you'd better tell me why it was given to you. And if you think I like this any better than you do, you're mistaken!"

"I don't know what you're making all this fuss about. But if you

Scouts March on Windsor

THREE thousand Boy Scouts recently marched into Windsor via the new tunnel connecting Detroit and the Canadian city. At the international boundary line, half-way through the tunnel, the Detroit Boy Scouts were met by a delegation of Canadian Boy Scouts.

"But they aren't the same as yours!"

"Oh, yes, they are—now what are you going to do about it?"

"I've seen the ring. The initials on it are 'de la M.' Peter said steadily.

"And my name was originally de la Mothe—it's been shortened in transit to de Lamoth," de Lamoth's pale lips drew back in a smile that was almost a snarl. "And I'm getting more and more curious to know, what's it to you? I'm feeling rotten this morning—I'd like to get back to work."

"Look here, Lammoth, there's no use taking it like that," Peter turned to the angry face above him with a winning smile. "I hope to goodness that you've got a beastly hangover this morning. I hope so, because it's possible that you've been nothing worse than drunk. This is something a darn sight more serious. That ring ties up with something I'm working on. And that something is murder."

Peter wanted to look away. For de Lamoth's thin frame began to shake from head to foot.

"I couldn't have—I never—" he stammered through chattering teeth.

"Buck up!" Peter said sharply. A possible explanation of de Lamoth's collapse had leaped to his mind. "This man wasn't killed in a drunken brawl. If you did it, you'd know it all right. But the ring belonged to the dead man. Now will you tell me where you got it?"

Still shaking, de Lamoth drew himself erect.

"No," he said, "I won't."

"I warn you, for your own sake, you'd better. And I'll tell you this much—Jimmy will go to the bat for you, whatever you've done."

De Lamoth's trembling lips straightened in a thin, sharp line. He made a pitiful effort to recover his blustering animosity.

"Are you trying to give me the third degree?" he asked scornfully.

"No," Peter said. "I'm trying to keep you from getting it. You know what would happen to you if you got into Morton's hands. If you were run in on an open charge for twenty-four hours, that twenty-four hours would be enough to settle Morton's score."

"I don't believe," de Lamoth said meditatively, "that anyone before ever tried to scare me into showing yellow."

Oh, heck! Peter's burst of impatience cleared the air like a flash of lightning. "Show some sense—be yourself—snap out of it! If somebody handed you that ring because it had your initials on it, it's a cinch he didn't know its value, and didn't know that it had anything to do with the murder. If he did, he'd have hung on to it, and not handed it around like some thing out of the ten cent store. You might just as well tell who it was, and have done with it. Because I'm out on this story, and I'm going to get it!"

The silence lasted so long that Peter leaned back, fearing that his final appeal had failed.

"It's not this other guy you're looking for, then?" de Lamoth asked at length. "I won't be getting him into trouble?"

"I don't know who I'm looking for!" Peter acknowledged.

De Lamoth's Adam's apple worked up and down several times before he spoke again.

"Well, I don't know why I shouldn't tell you. I wanted to keep it from Jimmy, but I guess that's no ro. We were both on a jag—a regular whooper. Ben Ryder took me over to his place and we had a few drinks, and then—I don't know where we went—that, but we just kept going. Sometime or other Ryder began to razz me about the handle of my name, and I told him that it really had a double handle. He pulled this ring out of his pocket and gave it to me. He said he never wore it because the initials didn't match."

"Ben Ryder works on The Times, doesn't he?" Jimmy looked up to ask.

"He did then, but he doesn't now. We used to be on The Telegram together, a couple of years ago. But Ben's a regular wanderer. Two months on one job is just about his limit."

"Do you know where he is now?" Jimmy enquired.

"I haven't the ghost of an idea. He got fired from The Times for not showing up at the office while we were on our spree. I guess The Times doesn't like kindly to dying aunts."

"He gave you the ring—and then beat it," Peter said slowly. He did not express aloud the other thought in his mind—that if de Lamoth

TENDERS FOR BURRARD STREET BRIDGE OPENED

VANCOUVER, Nov. 1.—Eleven tenders for construction of Burrard Street Bridge were opened before the City Council Friday. They came from ten firms, one company making an alternative bid on plans other than those prepared by Major J. R. Grant, consulting bridge engineer.

Of the tenders based on plans prepared by Major Grant, the lowest was that of Hodgson, King & Marble, associated with Dawson, Wade & Co., both of Vancouver, $1,677,047. The alternative bid, that of Carter, Hall, Aldinger, Vancouver, on plans prepared by C. A. P. Turner, Minneapolis, was $1,376,239 for a concrete structure.

The by-law passed for the purpose of constructing the bridge was for $2,800,000, out of which must come money for approaches and other expense outside the actual bridge construction.

On his first birthday, recently celebrated at Gordon Castle, near Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Lord Selkirk, son of the Earl of March, was presented with a rocking horse and an engraved gold watch by the tenants.

PROBLEM OVER GIFT
J. Pierpont Morgan's "donation" of 132 bottles of champagne has given authorities of the Peace Memorial Hospital at Watford, England, a problem. Champagne is not usually included among the "medicines" given to the patients, and the officials have asked their wine merchant if he will take the champagne and credit it to the hospital's brandy account. The American millionaire has a house at Aldenham, near Watford.

"Her Wedding Night"—Forbes and Ruggles in Cast

"Her Wedding Night," revealing the amusing and romantic adventures of a red-haired movie star who tries to escape the men, and a song writer whose numerous lady friends make life miserable for him, is Clara Bow's new riotous laugh-and-love hit, opening at the Dominion Theatre tomorrow for three days.

"Her Wedding Night" is an Avery Hopwood farce, with a succession of comedy situations that bubble and froth in rapid crescendo to an exciting and thrilling climax. It is a new type of vehicle for the "It" girl, being altogether farce without the customary dash of drama. It's built for laughs only, but the bits of loving to occupy the Red-Head.

Ralph Forbes, the handsome hero of "Beau Geste," and recently seen in "A Lady of Scandal," with Ruth Chatterton, gives full play to his talent for straight farce in this "It" show. And Charlie Ruggles, playing in his first Paramount Hollywood

"Girl of the Golden West" At the Capitol Tomorrow

Belasco Text of Original Drama Closely Followed in Screen Version to Be Shown Here—Ann Harding in Star Part

First a stage play, then a silent film and now a talking picture—such is the history of "The Girl of the Golden West," which is coming tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre.

In its new medium the story harks back to the original drama by David Belasco. As seen and heard on the talking screen, "The Girl of the Golden West" is said to follow the Belasco text very closely in dialogue and construction. Ann Harding is the girl—the role created twenty-five years ago by Blanche Bates. James Rennie plays Dick Johnson, the road agent, while Harry Bannister essays the part of the sheriff, Jack Rance, which was acted so unforgettably by Frank Keenan in the old days. The new First National

"GOLDEN CALF" HAS AN ALL-STAR CAST

Hundred of Hollywood's Most Beautiful Girls Appearing in Playhouse Picture

Comedy, music, dancing, youth and beauty are the high points of "The Golden Calf," Fox Movietone comedy with music, which opens a three-day engagement at the Playhouse Theatre tomorrow.

An all-star cast and a chorus of 100 of Hollywood's most talented and beautiful dancing girls, contributes much toward making this one of the most outstanding pictures of the year.

The cast includes Sue Carol, Jack Mulhall, El Brendel, Marjorie White, Richard Keene and Paul Page, all well known for successful productions seen here before.

Millard Webb, well remembered for "Glorifying the American Girl," "Gentlemen of the Press," and "Painted Angel," directed "The Golden Calf."

"GREEN GODDESS" IS PERENNIALY POPULAR

Great English Actor to Be Seen in Melodrama at Columbia

Strange religious and mystic worship have always held a great fascination for the general public. This is one of the several reasons that "The Green Goddess," startling melodrama of stage and silent screen, now made into his first Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture by George Arliss, has been perennially popular.

"The Green Goddess" is but one of the occult and mysterious deliriums of a land which contains many unsolved riddles, including the worship and alleged existence of the living Buddha. The little that is known of this secretive country makes the sacrifices demanded by "The Green Goddess" realistic and not an overdrawn picture of the strange land.

BACKACHE

Wonderful relief from pain

Backache is one of those wearying complaints which blind all their victims together with a common bond of misery. And when any one suffers from backache finds a sure remedy, fellowship prompts the quick report of that discovery to others. Here's a woman who has her friend to thank for knowledge of a remarkably successful treatment. Now gratitude compels her in turn, to pass along the good news to you.

"I am writing to tell you of the great benefit I have received from Kruschen Bais. My friend, Mrs. H., has received so much benefit that she begged me to give Kruschen a trial, although at first I was doubtful, because I had tried so many things. At last, however, I tried some of her Kruschen, and, feeling hopeful, I purchased a bottle, and I can honestly say that before I had finished the bottle my backache was gone. I have suffered for years with kidney trouble and dreadful headaches, and now to be free from the pain altogether is wonderful."—(Mrs. C.) (Adv.)

"Cuckoos" Shows Something New in Motion Pictures

Yesterday's Audiences at Coliseum Had Comedy Treat in Riotous Extravaganza—Is Lavish Production in Breath-Taking Setting

Proving that there is, after all, something new in motion pictures, "The Cuckoos," Radio Pictures' riotous extravaganza of nonsense, opened yesterday at the Coliseum Theatre and gave local audiences the comedy treat of their lives. Piled with mad waggery and delicious fun, "The Cuckoos" is a new type of screen musical which seems to come about the closest to 100 per cent popular appeal that any picture ever has achieved. "The Cuckoos" is not a revue; and it is not a musical comedy. The film is based on a well-developed plot and has a pleasing little romantic story running throughout.

NONSENSE RUNS WILD
But the comedy is of prime importance. Those two mad wags,

WILL CONDUCT CHOIR AT ITS THIRD RECITAL

In the person of F. Waddington, Victoria has a moving spirit in musical matters and one who has done much for the advancement of music in this city. He is indefatigable worker on the local festival committee, and his advice and suggestions on the choral and vocal portions of the syllabus have been most helpful.

He has been particularly successful with his choral work. His two girls' choirs in their competitions at the local festival in May last succeeded in winning three shields, one of these being for the highest marks obtained in the junior choral classes.

The Victoria Ladies' Choir also won two shields at the same festival under Mr. Waddington's baton, this choir obtaining the highest marks in the senior choral classes.

The Victoria Ladies' Choir will be conducted by Mr. Waddington at its third recital to be held at the Shrine Auditorium on November 13.

TRIPLE BILL MAKES UNIQUE PROGRAMME

A unique and attractive programme of three one-act plays is the first production of the season of the Mimes and Masquers' Guild, to be given at the Shrine Auditorium on November 6 and 7.

The first play, "Op o' Me Thumb,"

A Scene From "The Girl of the Golden West," the All-Talking Production Showing at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

set in a London laundry, is a blend of pathos and comedy. "The Birthday of the Infanta," by Oscar Wilde, is a fantasy with a touch of tragedy; while "The Romancers," by Edmund Rostand, is pure comedy, interwoven with a very charming romance.

This programme of one-act plays provides an opportunity for a great variety of interesting problems in acting and producing, and gives the audience a dramatic entertainment ranging all the way from tragedy to comedy.

HEAD OF OLDEST CLAN IN IRELAND IS DEAD

BELFAST, Ireland, Nov. 1.—The O'Mahoney of Kerry, head of the County Kerry branch of the oldest clan in Ireland, died Friday, aged eighty years, at his home in County Wicklow.

The original chief of the famous old clan married Sinha, the daughter of Brian Boru, High King of the Irish, who drove the Danes from Erin in a battle near Dublin on Good Friday in the year 1014. The O'Mahoney, who never forgot the glory of his name, wore the Irish kilt to the end of his days.

His full name was Pierce Charles De Lacy O'Mahoney. For many years he was active in politics and only recently had he retired to the peacefulness of his garden.

Prisoner—"But I would rather tell my own story. Don't you think it would be believed?"

Lawyer—"I think it would. It is the sort of story that carries conviction with it."

NEWCASTLE COAL

"Always Suits—Never Soots"

Less Ash

NUMBER 5

ASHES piling up on the floor of the ash pit! Heaps and heaps of ashes to be loaded into cans and carted away every day or so! An excess of ash under your furnace grate is a danger signal . . . a sign that you are not getting the heat you've paid for. For ash does not produce heat . . . it is the waste matter in every fuel. And too much waste matter means inferior coal, coal that fails to keep its promise.

Over four hundred families in this city last Winter discovered a way to combat those telltale signs of fuel wastage. They used Newcastle . . . the coal with less ash. You, too, will find that your fuel dollar will go farther if you use Newcastle. You will find that a furnace full of Newcastle means a house full of heat, without wasted money.

PEOPLE hear the new DeForest Crosley models—at once their features become the standard for this year's radio sets. DeForest Crosley has this year established a level of musical quality never before attained. All round performance entirely new to radio entertainment.

Harmonic Amplification the Big Advance

No radio development of recent years has equalled in importance the work of DC engineers in perfecting Harmonic Amplification. This new DeForest Crosley feature supplies the one essential hitherto lacking in radio reproduction—the complete range of harmonic overtones. And it is the harmonics which give music its life and colour—its brilliance.

"Full Efficiency" Screen Grid

The most efficient use of the tremendous power of Screen Grid Tubes—yet under full control, gives the maximum useful sensitivity. Again the greater experience, greater resources of DC engineering is displayed.

New Automatic Volume Control

Included in the DeForest Crosley line are models with the new DC Automatic Volume Control—which maintains your programme at the volume you have selected. Here, too, you find a new "Tone Colour" Control that gives you to the finest gradation the precise colour blending that thrills you most.

All These NEW Features at New Low Prices

Never before has the power of DeForest Crosley resources been so strikingly illustrated as in current values. You can enjoy all these great radio developments at a price formerly asked for the most ordinary set. See your DeForest Crosley dealer. Ask about the easy terms and the allowance for your old set.

GLEE CLUB GIVES CONCERT WEDNESDAY

Hudson's Bay Employees Having Final Rehearsal for Their Opening Event

JOSEPH MAGUIRE

Conductor of the Hudson's Bay Employees' Glee Club, which is to give a concert at the Shrine Auditorium on Wednesday evening next.

The Hudson's Bay Employees' Glee Club is in preparation for its first public concert to be held in the Shrine Auditorium on Wednesday next. The assisting artists are Miss Isabelle Crawford, gold medalist soprano; Mr. George Tate, violinist, and the Garden City Male Voice Quartette. Mr. Joseph Maguire is the conductor and Mrs. Margaret Stewart the accompanist. The following is the programme:

Bridal Chorus, "The Rose Maiden" (F. W. Cowen), Glee Club; "Dawn" (Paul Curran), Glee Club; "On the Road to Mandalay" (Oley Speaks) and "When Song Is Sweet" (G. Sans Souci), Garden City Quartette; "Let Me Be the Canakin Clink" (Glee Club); (a) "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (M. Carew), Isabelle Crawford; "Morning" (Oley Speaks) and "Dinner" (J. S. Ford), Glee Club; "The

AN INTERESTING FAMILY HISTORY

Dr. Robert G. Jackson's paternal grandfather, father and eleven paternal uncles and aunts, and his own brother and sister, all died of heart disease. At 50 the great Sir Wm. Osler gave the doctor himself only four months to live, dying from heart disease and "general breakdown." He'd lived five years on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years after Osler gave him up he climbed the fifty stories in Washington's Monument, up and down, and was not even tired. All a result of changed living habits—chiefly a change from civilization's disease-causing acid foods to alkaline-forming Roman Meal. His 438-page book, "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL," tells the entire story—shows how anyone may be always well by natural means. Remit $2.00 by P.O. order for a copy, or write for descriptive literature, to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 215 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont., or write for his free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and sample of Roman Meal and the new alkaline beverage, "Kofy-sub." (Adv.)

The following artists took part: J. Whitehead, Mrs. D. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Arnett, Mrs. Brankston, G. Sykes, Miss E. Barrie and Miss I. Davidson, D. Arnett presiding at the piano.

A poem was read by Mr. P. Conroy that was written in Prince Edward Island about sixty years ago. He explained that it was the means of repealing the old law of "imprisonment for Debt."

During the tea E. Mynns and Miss Agnes Seaton played selections, the former on the violin and the latter at the piano.

Remanded for Sentence
Kenneth Angus, charged with obtaining a watch by false pretences, pleaded guilty in the city police court yesterday morning. The accused said he was ready to pay the money and that he had come from Alberta. He was remanded until Monday for consideration of the sentence by the police magistrate.

INDOOR BOWLING

NANAIMO, Oct. 31.—Last night, on the local bowling alleys, in a City League fixture, the Woods took two out of three games from the Mills, with E. Edmunds, playing for the Mills, with high score of 180, and C. Holmes, for the Woods, with high average of 160.

In the Commercial League, Davenport took two out of three games from the Telephone, with T. Pionetti, playing for the Davenport, with high score of 246, and W. Shepherd, for the same team, with high average of 222.

In the same fixture Metropolitan took three games from Billiard Hall with S. Wood playing for Met's, with high score of 280 and high average of 246.

In the Mixed League Good Eats took two out of three games from the S.O.B., with Miss Berland playing for Good Eats with high average of 166 and high score of 177.

Choir Holds Social

NANAIMO, Oct. 31.—In the I.O.O.F. Hall last evening the Presbyterian choir held a very successful social, the object of the gathering being to raise funds to secure seating accommodation for the choir in the new church, and a substantial sum was secured.

The following artists took part: J. Whitehead, Mrs. D. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Arnett, Mrs. Brankston, G. Sykes, Miss E. Barrie and Miss I. Davidson, D. Arnett presiding at the piano.

A poem was read by Mr. P. Conroy that was written in Prince Edward Island about sixty years ago. He explained that it was the means of repealing the old law of "imprisonment for Debt."

Getting Up Nights Quickly Alleviated

Backache, Leg Pains, and Irritating Acids Often Removed in 48 Hours

Quick Test Guaranteed

If Getting Up Nights is Backache, Irritating Acids, Headaches, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Addictive Burning, Smarting, Stinging or Biting Weakness, makes you feel tired, run-down, discouraged and depressed, you should try the quick-acting, double treatment known as the Cystex Test.

Quick Acting Double Test

If you suffer from these conditions, you likely will be delightfully surprised at the quick, soothing, beneficial action of Cystex. Much of the marked success of Cystex is due to its being a double treatment in one. Because of this double action most sufferers find that there is no long waiting for results but that their conditions are corrected almost immediately. One part of the treatment starts circulating thru the system within a few minutes, quickly stopping urinary irritation and associated painful conditions. The other part of the treatment soon acts as a cold and soothing agent to the bladder.

The active ingredients composing the Cystex double treatment are listed in each package so that you may know exactly what you are taking, and can be told by your doctor or pharmacist that this is a highly nutritious preparation which does not contain any poisons, narcotics or habit-forming drugs.

Internationally Successful

Cystex has had such marked success that it is now demanded in many different parts of the world, and is registered in the governments of twenty different countries, such as England, France, Africa, Australia, Brazil, etc. This rapidly growing demand is largely due to the quick action, unusual merit, and the recommendation of satisfied users who found that Cystex quickly corrected their conditions thus eliminating many hours' suffering and worry.

Guaranteed Trial Offer
Don't wait. Don't delay. Get Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) from any drugstore for only 10¢ under the Iron-Clad, Money-Back Guarantee. Put it to the test. Use all of it. See for yourself how fast it works. If it does not quickly improve restless sleep and stop other disturbing conditions, thus increasing your energy and enjoyment of life, merely return the empty package and your money will be refunded.

JUDGE ALLOWS SUM TO EMPLOYEE WHO HAD BEEN DISMISSED

Judge Lampman, in the County Court yesterday, handed down his judgment in the case of Cooper vs. Shawigan Lake Lumber Company. The action was one in which the plaintiff, who had been employed as storekeeper for the defendant company, had been dismissed from the position by the manager of the company on the ground that he had left his duties for a day without first getting permission from the management. The plaintiff sued for a month's salary at the rate of $150 in lieu of notice. He was allowed $100.

The plaintiff's defence was that when he was engaged the question of the weekly half holiday came up and he had been allowed to take a day or two off a month. He said he was not required to obtain special permission each time. His Honor, from the authorities, reached the conclusion that summary dismissal should follow only on two accounts. The first was wilful disobedience of any lawful order of the master, and the second was negligence in business or conduct calculated seriously to impair his master's business. On neither of these counts could the judge classify the action of the plaintiff. He was dismissed on June 9 but was paid up to June 13. On July 2 he opened another store, but, in view of the fact that he was getting settled he did not make any profit for that month. His Honor allowed the plaintiff $100.

THE GIFTS OF LOVE

These are the gifts of love:
More gladness for the Earth,
More trust in heaven above,
More tenderness, more mirth.

Love comes with laden hands,
Bringing us priceless things,
A heart that understands,
A faith that soars and sings.

Love has no doubts or fears
To mar its joys complete,
No fierce distrust that sears,
True are the thoughts and sweet.

These are the gifts of love:
Clear looks and honest praise,
And tranquil hours that prove
How blessed are love's ways.
